JUMPED FROM A TRAIN TO DEATH.

Tragic Suicide of W. Russell Ward Who Eloped From Los Angeles With Mrs. Bradbury, the Young Millionaire's Wife.

Was Found Dead in His Night-robe by the Track, Having Dashed Through a Window as He Was on His Way to England to Join His Wife and Children.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

CHICAGO Sept 3—W Russell Ward of San Francisco, a passenger on the Chicago & Northwestern overland flyer, which arrived in Chicago today and who is believed to be the man who eloped last summer with the wife of millionaire Bradbury of Los Angeles leaped from the window of a Pullman car while the train was rushing through Iowa last night and was killed

A telegram was received from Wheatland Iowa almost at the same time the train pulled into Chicago which said that Ward's body, clad only in a night robe, had been discovered

It is believed he was demented

It is not known at what hour Ward jumped from the train as no one saw him His absence was discovered by Conductor Roundy when the train was between Geneva and Chicago

All of the suicide's clothing and effects were found in the berth he occupied

The police of Chicago are mystified over the case Yesterday afternoon the following telegram was received at the central station

"Please send a good man to drawing room B, on 2 of the East-bound overland train arriving in Chicago at 7 30"

The telegram was sent from Fremont Nebraska, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock It bore no signature Detective Broderick met the train and on investigation found that drawing room B was the room that the suicide had occupied

The detective was informed by Conductor Roundy that the telegram the police had received had been sent by Ward who left the train at Fremont long enough to send it

What the man's object was, in notifying the police to have a detective meet the train is not apparent

All of Ward's effects, consisting of several expensive satchels and his railroad ticket are in the hands of the Pullman Company authorities The suicide's name and residence was learned from his ticket His destination was Buffalo

C F Goodman conductor and C M Calloway, porter of the Pullman car occupied by Ward said that prior to his retiring last night at 10 o'clock he exhibited no signs of insanity.

The body will be held at Wheatland until the dead man's friends can be communicated with

Another report is to the effect that Ward was brought into the train at Fremont, Nebraska by a gentleman who was well dressed and apparently a business man of middle age

There was nothing unusual about him and neither he or his friend attracted attention

Ward was placed in a state room and shutting the door behind him, leaped from the train

It is not known whether he locked the door from the outside

Immediately after leaving the car the stranger rushed to a telegraph office and sent a message to the police of this city requesting them to take his friend in charge when the train arrived

The police are inclined to believe that Ward was of unsound mind and that he was sent to this city by friends

Telegrams have been forwarded by the police to Fremont requesting further evidence

WARD WAS CERTAINLY OUT OF HIS HEAD.

Additional Details of the Tragic Death of the Gay Young Man

By Associated Press to The Tribune

CHICAGO, Sept 3—W Russell Ward, the Englishman who created a sensation a short time ago by eloping with the wife of Millionaire John Bradbury of Los Angeles, Cal committed suicide this morning by throwing himself from a Chicago and Northwestern train. The fact was not known until several hours later. The body of Ward was found at Wheatland, Ia

According to Conductor Calloway, the act was committed after 3 o'clock this morning Ward was evidently insane when he threw himself out of the car window as he had been acting peculiarly a great part of the time

Ward boarded the train at San Francisco at 5 30 Monday evening and was assigned to drawing room No 2 and had tickets through to Chicago He did not display much money, and was dressed in a new suit of black clothes On being given possession of his apartment in the Pullman car Ward remained away from the other passengers most of the time and spent all of his time in his own apartments

Early yesterday morning he began to show signs of insanity He flourished two revolvers on the train several times and almost created a panic among the passengers. He told the conductor who he was and at every stop of the train he would get off and send telegrams

One of these he sent to Los Angeles saying that if Mrs Bradbury wanted him she could come to him, but for the present he would have to go to England and visit his wife

Another telegram was one he sent to Chicago The latter he sent from Fremont Neb and reads as follows

"Please send a good man to drawing B car 2 of the East-bound overland Northwestern train arriving at Chicago at 7 30 tomorrow morning"

Lieut Collins received the message, and thinking it was in regard to some fugitive turned it over to Lieut Hass, and this morning the latter detailed Detective Broderick of headquarters to meet the train

Ward's effects consisted of several expensive satchels and his railroad tickets The satchels were examined by the Pullman officials at the Union depot and it was through the papers found in them that his identity was learned

The Northwestern people were notified of this fact and the train dispatcher immediately proceeded to have the body looked for Telegrams were sent along the line as far as Fremont Neb, and orders given agents to search for the remains

Several hours later a dispatch was received from Wheatland Ia., that the body had been found alongside the track near that place The body was dressed in only a night robe and was much bruised

The remains were taken to Clinton, Iowa where they are being held

In Ward's satchel was found only $12 in cash, but he also had a draft for $450 He had in his clothing a hotel bill for $94

All yesterday and last night Ward acted in a restless manner and frequently left his apartments creating consternation among the passengers by his peculiar actions He remained up all night and refused to retire until 3 o'clock when he approached the porter and told him he was going to sleep Ward then went into his room When Dekalb Ill was reached, the porter knocked at the door of Ward's room, but received no answer He made several efforts to get into the room but without success and then abandoned the idea

When the train pulled into the Northwestern depot this morning Detective Broderick leaped on board and endeavored to gain entrance into drawing room B The door was securely locked The train crew managed to get in through an anne[illegible] and the detective was admitted to the room It was found to be empty

A suit of clothing which Ward had worn was found scattered about the room but no trace of him could be found It was soon decided that he had jumped through the window and all his effects were taken in charge by the Pullman company

In the meantime the police officials of the Northwestern road proceeded to learn the man's identity

The police believe Ward intended to take his life in his apartments They think he telegraphed to them while having such an idea in his mind It was his intention they say, to kill himself on the train and have his body found when the train arrived here

The suicide's personal effects included a big revolver in a holster and a bowie knife and one letter which was signed "Your affectionate mother" It was dated several months ago The letter simply upbraided Ward for failing to keep her posted on his whereabouts and for his neglect in not writing her

Cards showing his membership in the Marlborough Club England and Wellington Club Grosvenor Place, Cornwall London were also found The following note was written with lead pencil on a blank piece of paper

"Dear Drew Would it be expecting too much of you to see this detective and tell him that I am willing to return to Los Angeles and undergo arrest there with him if he likes? I would rather return and face the music for what can only be a short time Of course, if you object in the least tell me so Yours Truly W. Russell Ward"

A clipping from the San Francisco Examiner detailing the arrest and escape from jail at Los Angeles on August 30th of a man whose name was Henry Bacon, was found in his pocket Bacon was charged with holding up a street car and three gambling houses From the tone of the note which refers to "The Detective" the telegram sent to Chicago police, it would seem possible that Ward had committed some crime at Los Angeles and that having failed to give himself up to the Los Angeles authorities concluded to surrender to the Chicago police, but decided later to commit suicide

Nobody on the train not even the officials knew that Ward was missing until Conductor Roundy took charge of the train at Geneva In going the rounds of the train he found Ward's berth empty and the car window wide open The man's clothing was found in the berth

A new book entitled "Witty, Wise and Wicked Maxims, with all the passionate love passages and those pertaining to heartless women heavily underlined with pencil, was also found

It is believed that Ward had been brooding over his separation with Mrs. Bradbury The porter of the car and the conductor, L F Godman both say that Ward was morose and gloomy from the time he boarded the train. He kept in his state room most of the time reading love stories.

As soon as he got a little money ahead he bloomed out as a great swell and made his way rapidly in society After a time he surprised his friends by marrying Miss Bandini, a member of a wealthy family He made a tour to London with her and soon after his return, he was attracted by Mrs Bradbury's beauty

CHICAGO Sept 3—The number of persons striving to be present at the Luetgert murder trial today was so great that guards were stationed on the stairways to turn back everybody not in some way connected with the case.

The cross-examination of Police Captain Schuettler was resumed Attorney Vincent, for the defense asked to have stricken from the case the captain's statement that he did not go to New York to find out whether Mrs Luetgert had been seen there alive, but to look up the reputation of Grotty, who said he had met her on Broadway

Attorney Vincent said the statement was prejudicial The court refused to sustain the motion Captain Schuettler told of his trip to New York and his investigation of Grotty's reputation He said the State wanted to be prepared to prove Grotty a perjurer if he appeared as a witness for the defense

Captain Schuettler was asked about the visit of Attorney Vincent to the East Chicago avenue police station on the day of Luetgert's arrest but the State objected Mr Vincent stated that he expected to prove by Luetgert that when he was arrested Inspector Schaach refused to permit any person to see him until the next day.

The attorney said he was not allowed to see him and was compelled to begin a habeas corpus proceeding Judge Tuthill refused to admit any evidence regarding the matters "Inspector Schaah is not on trial here," said the court

Police Lieutenant Hutchinson corroborated the testimony of Schuettler as to the visit made by him and Schuettler on May 8th to Luetgert, at the latter's home to secure from him a statement regarding the disappearance of his wife He said Luetgert stated that he hired a detective to look for his wife although he had previously been told that he had engaged two private detectives

Officer Dean of the Scheffield station, who found the two gold rings in the middle vat in which it is charged Mrs Luetgert's body was dissolved in caustic potash, testified concerning the discovery

He was followed by Mrs Ida Harris, who was the first of a series of witnesses who identified the rings as having been worn by Mrs Luetgert.

END OF THE CASE

The Last Witness Examined in the McLellan Burglary Case.

SILVERIA NOT SUBPOENAED.

An Admission to That Effect by the Defendant's Counsel.

MELVIN ADDRESSES THE JURY.

Oregon Sanders Follows on the Part of His Fair Client.

This morning the court room of Judge Greene was thronged with people to listen to the cross-examination of Mrs. McLellan, who is accused of burglary.

The witness was attired in a grey dress with a black silk waist and a flat chip hat with a red and black band. Her face was not concealed by a veil, as it has been during the trial. She showed a pallid face, the result of her recent imprisonment and the excitement under which she labored.

The cross-examination was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Melvin, but Judge Greene took a hand at times for the purpose of shedding more light on the subject.

The judge drew a diagram, showing the vicinity of the burglary and including the San Leandro road the power-house, the Dias house and the barley field through which it is alleged Mrs. McLellan crossed on her way to the Dias residence.

The greater part of the cross-examination was devoted to the passing of Silveria toward Jones street.

The witness stated originally that Silveria had crossed diagonally through the intervening space and later denied that she had made such a statement. The notes were referred to and it was shown that the defendant had testified in the manner alleged by the District Attorney.

She was then asked in what manner the missing Silveria had come through the field and indicated that he had crossed from Jones street. She was asked how she knew and replied that she supposed he must have come from that direction. Then Mr. Melvin asked whether or not she really knew in what direction Silveria had traveled and she finally admitted that she did not know. She was then excused.

Constable Robinson next was called by the State and testified that when he had seen the defendant on the Haywards car on the night of the 5th of June, she did not have, as had been testified, a sprig of wheat in her hand.

The defense sought to show that Robinson did not know anything as to the description of the woman and sought to get him to admit that he had striven to get information on the subject from a man named Thompson who was on the same car at the time mentioned.

Robinson denied the imputation, declaring that, in speaking to Thompson on the subject, he desired to know whether or not Thompson would be available in helping him to identify the accused, who, at that time, had not been arrested.

Motorman Westpheal testified that Mrs. McLellan had no wheat in her hand when she rode on his car on the night of the burglary.

On cross-examination, the witness said that his attention had been attracted to Mrs. McLellan by the dirt which was on her back as also by the basket which she carried.

T. Thompson also testified that he did not think the defendant had any wheat that night.

Mr. Melvin then offered the subpoenas issued by the defendant in the case.

The court suggested that the clerk might be sworn because the defense objected on the ground of immateriality.

The court then asked what the prosecution sought to prove by the subpoenas.

Melvin answered that he wished to prove that the defendant had made no attempt to secure the presence of Manuel Silveria, who was alleged to have accompanied the defendant on the night of the burglary.

Judge Greene then suggested that perhaps the attorneys might agree upon the facts in the case.

Attorney Sanders said that the matter of issuing subpoenas he left to his clerk, who, however, was not present. In so far as he was concerned, he said, he had not issued a subpoena for Silveria.

"And you are the defendant's attorney?" asked Judge Greene.

"I am her attorney," replied Sanders.

Juror Lindsay asked that the reporter read the notes of the conductor's evidence as to where Mrs. McLellan had sat on the car on the night of the burglary.

The notes were read and it was shown that she had occupied a seat on the outside of the car in the rear and on the south side.

The diagram on the board was then corrected by placing the power house on the north side of the track and not on the south side.

Deputy District Attorney Melvin then opened the closing argument.

He charged the jury with their duty and charged the defendant with perjury, and asserted that she was guilty whether she entered the Dias house or not, because she was present when the burglary was committed. They should find her guilty even though their heart strings should be wrung with sympathy.

Attorney Sanders then followed, addressing the jury for the defense.

THE DEFENDANT'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. McLellan the defendant, took the stand yesterday afternoon and told the story that on the night of the burglary she had gone to San Leandro with a man named Manuel Silveria to witness the fireworks there. Her husband, she said, did not know she was going there. In leaving San Leandro, she and her companion took an electric car for the city. Then she continued:

"Silveria said he wanted to stop at Elmhurst to get some things that belonged to a Mrs. Larsen or Lawson. We went to the Dias house. I waited near by for him, and he soon returned with two large baskets.

"Coming home I got off at Twenty-first avenue. He asked me to take the stuff to my house and keep it over night. He was going to call for it the next day. He called but did not carry away the baskets. I began to grow uneasy. I couldn't find Mrs. Larsen where he said she lived. Silveria had given me a lamp and a silver mirror in the package, and I took them to Mrs. Wright's. My husband began to question me, and I didn't want to tell him where I had been that night. I feared something was wrong and I wanted to get the things out of the house. That is why I packed them up and sent them to expressman Evans."

"Did you tell any contradictory stories about that trip?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Mrs. McLellan. "I didn't want my husband to know I had been to San Leandro with Silveria."

The theory of the attorney for the defense was that the burglary had been committed by the unknown Manuel Silveria, who had not been produced at the trial.

A recess was declared at noon and when the court reassembled in the afternoon Mr. Sanders resumed his argument.

wag, Mrs. Ward and children went to London where she is at present.

A couple of months ago came the startling announcement that Ward and Mrs. Bradbury had eloped to San Francisco. They came to the metropolis and their doings there were most notorious and led to their arrest for adultery.

After a sensational trial Ward was released. This was on Thursday last. Since that incident which is still fresh in the public mind, Ward has been drinking heavily.

He has recently taken very much to heart the fact that many of his friends snubbed him and treated him as a moral leper. They refused to recognize him and he was socially ostracised. At the Palace Hotel bar, where he was a frequent visitor, numbers of his male acquaintances refused to speak to him. He stated to one of them, that he expected to be persona non grata to his lady friends, but that he expected his male friends would laugh with him over the whole affair. This they did not do and he was very much disheartened.

Last Monday night he was with some acquaintances and was in a jolly frame of mind. He said he was going to England to meet his wife and children and was prepared to fix up his domestic difficulties.

That was the last known of him prior to his leaving for England.

M'KINLEY TALKS TO THE CHILDREN.

The President Pleased to See the Little Ones in Columbus.

Platoons of Militia Escort Him Through the Fair Grounds.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 3.—President McKinley and party arrived at 10 a. m. and are guests of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture joined them here.

With the President came Mrs. McKinley, M. A. Hanna, Secretary Alger, Colonel Herrick and other personal friends.

Upon arrival the committee on reception appointed by the Board of Agriculture, escorted the President between two lines of police carriages. The crowd was immense, the weather being fine and the attendance at the fair very large.

After luncheon the President and party took carriages for the fair, overtaking the military, which had gone ahead to "rest in the shade" as desired by the President until he came up to them, at a point near the entrance.

Marching into the large fair grounds, the procession moved through a sea of human beings, to the main building, where the President addressed school children from Columbus and from many parts of the State, who had been especially invited by card and admitted free.

The President expressed himself especially pleased to meet the children.

Later, the party was escorted to various buildings of interest, where informal receptions were given.

The President was interested in the cottage in which Grant was born. It is inclosed in a building of steel and glass and is the property of the farmers of Ohio, being permanently located on the fair grounds.

BIANCHI'S NEMESIS.

The Fickle Barber to Lose His Very Pretty Wife.

WAS THRICE BASELY DESERTED

Bigamy Followed and Then the Shaver Went to Prison.

NO MORE IN THE WIFE'S HEART

Impoverished She Secures Assistance of the Court.

Judge Ellsworth has issued an order instructing the Sheriff and the clerk of the court to remit their fees in the case of Sarah Bianchi vs. John Bianchi for divorce which is soon to be instituted. The order was issued after the reading of affidavits of the plaintiff and Mrs. Prescott of the Humane Society. The affidavits show that the petitioner is in an impoverished condition, subsisting with her child on charity. She says that she has been deserted by her husband, who is now serving a sentence in the Nevada penitentiary.

Bianchi was formerly a gay barber of this city, his shop being on Seventh street west of Broadway depot. He had a most promiscuous fondness for women with pretty faces and the passion caused him to nearly lose his life and finally landed him in jail as a bigamist. Several years ago, his wife died, leaving two children.

After a short period, he married the sister a very pretty woman. Bianchi distributed his affections in a miscellaneous manner and one day was surprised by his wife in the company of another woman.

There was a gun play and the fickle barber fell to the floor, bleeding profusely from a wound in the shoulder, dangerously near his heart.

The injury was attended at the Receiving Hospital, the wife, whose injured feelings had impelled to the shooting having relented on a promise of reformation on the part of her erring spouse attending and consoling him while his wound was being dressed.

The couple made up again, and for a time, lived as happy as birds in a nest. But again Bianchi forgot his marital obligations. He left the city, giving a whole or at least a part interest in the shop on Seventh street to his wife.

He wandered in various climes and finally located in Carson, Nev., where he married another pretty wife.

She joined her husband in shaving customers and a large trade resulted.

Finally, his first wife heard of his recreancy, swooped down upon him and now John is shaving criminal mugs behind the bars.

The suit will be brought by attorney Mitchell, and interesting proceedings are expected.

Burglaries Reported.

Burglars entered the home of J. H. Rourke, at Doyle street and San Pablo avenue, at 1 o'clock this morning, and stole a lot of clothing.

The entrance was effected through a lower window which was found open when the family arose.

Mrs. C. E. Wolcott of 915 Eleventh street reports that a purse was stolen from her on Broadway last night.

An overcoat was stolen last evening from the San Pablo avenue car house, where it had been left hanging. The coat belonged to Dan Pettner of 407 San Pablo avenue.

MORE EVIDENCE IS HEARD.

Witnesses Are Called in the Trial of Michael Collins.

The Story of the Assault Told in Court for the Third Time.

The trial of Michael Collins for the alleged murder of Philip Boogar was resumed this morning in Judge Ogden's court.

The defendant was attended by his daughter, Mrs. Boogar widow of the deceased.

Attorneys Knight and Garrity appeared for the defendant.

The State was represented by District Attorney Snook.

There was a stipulation between counsel that the testimony of certain witnesses taken in the earlier trials, might be read to the jury.

Then the testimony of William Alcorn was read by District Attorney Snook. It showed that on the night of the killing, the witness had seen Boogar near the entrance to the Galindo Hotel. He then heard the noise as of a scuffle and then heard the report of a pistol shot. He turned and saw the flash of a second shot. He was about fifty feet away from the men who were scuffling. One of the struggling men was the defendant. He could not see whether the man who had been struggling with Collins had anything in his hand. The men separated and then Boogar advanced toward Collins and Collins walked away. Then Boogar threw up his hands and staggered back. As Collins approached, he said to witness "stand back."

The cross examination was read by Attorney Knight. It showed that when he heard the noise which preceded the shooting, it sounded like angry voices by two people and then the heavy scuffling of feet.

Witness Howland and Hemphill, who had testified before told the same story as in previous trials.

Henry A. Schlueter testified to the facts of being present when the shooting took place as they have been heretofore published.

Menin Wenceslow was the next witness. He testified that he had been near the Galindo Hotel when the affray took place.

There was a recess taken at noon till 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and then the people called A. Ingram. There was no response.

The name of W. J. Moffitt was then called, and there was no response either.

Joseph Harris was next called and testified to having seen Collins near the Galindo Hotel on the day of the shooting.

The witness was cross-examined by Jurors Leydecker and Hall.

EARTHQUAKE WEATHER.

First Rain of the Season Fell Last Evening and More Is Expected.

"Earthquake weather" is what the old settlers term this leaden sky and heavy, warm atmosphere, with its dampness. All the big earthquakes have taken place when the atmosphere has been charged with electricity and moisture as it is now. An earthquake or thunder storm may be expected to clear the atmosphere soon.

The first rain of the season fell last evening, and although only three hundredths of an inch of water fell, more may be expected before the muggy weather clears and gives way to clear, bright sunshine. Last year, the first rain fell on August 30th, when there was quite a brisk shower, although the heavy rain did not come until September 19th.

BLEW OFF THE TOP OF HIS HEAD.

A Despondent German Miner Commits Suicide at His Mine.

Put a Giant Powder Cartridge in His Mouth and Fired It.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

OROVILLE, Cal., Sept. 3.—Adam Nipshew, an aged German miner, committed suicide in a shocking manner yesterday at his claim near Yankee Hill, eighteen miles from here.

He had been despondent for some time past, but evinced no disposition to do himself an injury. Yesterday, however, he left his partner, a half-breed Indian in their cabin and went to the mine alone.

Shortly afterward the Indian heard a report and upon investigating found that Nipshew had placed a giant powder cartridge in his mouth and fired it, blowing the top of his head off.

VETOED THE ORDINANCE.

The City Cannot Pay $25,000 Toward Twelfth Street Improvement.

Mayor Thomas Sends the Document Back to the Council.

Mayor Thomas this afternoon vetoed the ordinance appropriating $25,000 for the improvement of East Twelfth street, and sent the following communication to the City Council.

"To the Honorable the City Council—Gentlemen: I herewith return to you the ordinance ordering the payment of a part of the expense of paving and improving East Twelfth street from the westerly line of First avenue to the easterly line of Eleventh avenue, and appropriating $25,000 for the payment of the same, without my approval, for the following reason:

"The ordinance provides that a portion to-wit $25,000, of the cost and expense of said work of paving and improving shall be paid out of the City Treasury. It was undoubtedly the intention of the Council to pay from the City Treasury one-half only of the cost of said work, and was so understood by the property owners on the line of the proposed improvement. But under the ordinance as provided the city would be bound to pay the full sum of $25,000 and in addition thereto the cost of the improvement on the line of the city's property, namely the frontage between Sixth and Seventh avenues. I am satisfied that $25,000 will greatly exceed one-half of the cost of the intended improvement. Of the nine bids recently received by your honorable body for the entire work, four of them were under $44,000, the lowest being $41,672.31. All bids having been rejected for informalities, and but one bid over $50,000, it is fair to presume that the work will cost less than $45,000.

"For the reasons above stated, to say nothing of the precedent that would be established of the city paying for portions of street work, I feel compelled to veto the ordinance.

"Yours very respectfully,

"W. R. THOMAS, Mayor.

"Oakland, Cal., Sept. 3, 1897."

HEAVY FALL OF A TIMBER.

Hull Inspector Marcucci Is Injured at the S. P. Yards.

The Skull Fractured But No Serious Consequences Are Expected.

A very serious accident happened to Domingo Marcucci, Deputy United States Inspector of Hulls, in the yards of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, at West Oakland, shortly before noon today.

Mr. Marcucci had gone to the yards from San Francisco for the purpose of inspecting the hull of the steamer Thoroughfare, which is being overhauled on the ways.

A number of ship carpenters were employed on the upper deck. One of them had just sawed a timber in two and a piece of the wood fell to the ground.

At that instant Marcucci was passing on the ground beneath the workman, and the descending timber struck him on the head, about an inch above and behind the left ear.

A scalp wound about an inch and a half long was inflicted, the bone being laid bare.

Detective Duncomb took Marcucci to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Buteau sewed the wound. He said that the skull had sustained a slight fracture on the outer surface, and that if there were no depression on the inner side of the skull, nothing serious need be expected. If, however, there were a depression, the skull would have to be trephined.

After the operation had been performed, Marcucci was taken to his home at 2011 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco.

AFTER THE DRESSES

Mrs. Fennell's Modish Habilments Sought by Very Anxious Creditors.

PROCEEDINGS IN INSOLVENCY.

The Latest Move to Have the Claims Settled Up at Once.

AN INDEBTEDNESS OF $3000.

The Defendant and Her Goods Still in Seclusion at the Metropole.

The latest feature in the case of Mrs. Amanda J. Fennell, who is undergoing self immurement in the Hotel Metropole in this city, is to attempt to reach the lady through involuntary insolvency.

Mrs. Marceau-Fennell is the unhappy possessor of a wardrobe as extensive almost as that of the divine Patti, who, it is rumored, has a special dress for every day in the year.

These dresses of Mrs. Fennell are not unlike those of the diva in richness and beauty, and accordingly have attracted the eagle gaze of creditors, who hope that they may be brought into court for the purpose of satisfying Mrs. Fennell's debts, which have long remained unsatisfied.

Thus far however, the creditors have hoped in vain. They have consoled themselves with the idea that the goods have been attached, but, if so, the attachment has failed to bring the treasures of female finery from behind doors that are locked and double-locked, and which nobody seems to have the courage to either open or batter down. Hence the proceedings in involuntary insolvency, which was filed in the Superior Court this morning.

The petitioners are Jules C. Gamage, J. A. Christen, Thomas J. Hecks, Thomas Hancock and J. H. Schlect & Co.

They allege that Mrs. Fennell is a resident of Oakland, and that she is indebted to the petitioners in the following amounts: Jules C. Gamage, $2,163; J. A. Christen, $9.10, Thomas J. Hecks, $119.75; Thomas Hancock, 179, and J. H. Schlect & Co., $128.50.

These bills represent money expended in behalf of the defendant and goods delivered to her during the past years. It is also alleged that the defendant has committed an act of insolvency by concealing herself to avoid the service of legal process and also conceals her property for the same purpose.

The case will be a very interesting one, because capitalist McDermott claims that the property of Mrs. Fennell is his under a bill of sale which he received from her some ten days ago.

In explanation of his connection with the case, Mr. McDermott said:

"About ten days ago a Fresno real estate dealer came to me to negotiate a loan for his client, Mrs. Fennell. This fellow Gamage had attached about $2,000 worth of diamonds on which Mrs. Fennell had borrowed some money, and I agreed to advance enough money to lift that attachment and settle all of the small debts that the lady owed. The amount needed was something like $9,000. She is perfectly good for everything she owes. This annoyance is simply persecution. To secure myself temporarily I took a bill of sale of Mrs. Fennell's personal effects and removed them to different rooms in the Hotel Metropole, had special locks put on the doors and I carry the keys. I don't see how anybody can attach those goods.

"Mrs. Fennell owns some of the most valuable property in Fresno, the Fiske block, the Grady Opera House, a store building and residence. The property rents now for $1,200 per month and is easily worth $150,000. As soon as the abstract is made out I shall take a trust deed to the Fresno property, subject to a $40,000 mortgage and the $25,000 interest of Mrs. Fennell's son. That will secure me for the money I have advanced, and I shall then give up my bill of sale of all the personal property. I shall have the privilege of taking up the $40,000 mortgage, which falls due in October. With good management Mrs. Fennell should soon have her business affairs in good shape. It is outrageous that she should have been persecuted as she has been."

Congressman S. G. Hilborn is expected to leave the early part of next week for California. He is now at Poland Springs, Maine. He will spend a couple of weeks at the Yellowstone Park on his trip out and will stop off at Suisun before coming on to Oakland.

Mrs. Hilborn and Miss Grace Hilborn are now at Suisun spending the summer with relatives.

FRIDAY.... SEPTEMBER 3 1897

'Sir Harry Cooper seems on the point of rolling over a barrel

The Eastern letter carriers are coming to the coast by special train. Their train will be here in a couple of days

The value of the metal in a standard silver dollar is now 46 cents Silver will soon be more than this depreciation continues

The yellow ... is about first dying out The trinity be ... is already a thing of the past and the ... is travelling in the same direction

The Stanford students intend to reserve their rushes for the Thanksgiving Day football game They can indulge in them then without being called barbarians

The olive branch would wave more if California ranchers realized that big profits are in the business The demand is always greater than the supply and that means good prices

While Emperor William is ... about his divine right ... setting herself in such a ... can put in a good stiff ... Kaiser know that practice will beat theory every time

The impression prevails that Alameda county's assessment will be allowed to stand That will suit ... asking for any reduction but simply to be rated on what is ... a fair valuation of our ...

A California ... Cole is running a tobacco plantation at Weston and has succeeded in bringing the crop to such a paying basis in this State that this year he will ... an acre This kind of ... is certainly entitled to smoke

In order to make ... his practice ... ed a banner which ... welcome ... November last ... McKinley and ... O tempora O mores

There is no question ... the enterprise of the neighbors on our eastern boundary ... the same loaf Fruitvale ... cutting and proposes to put her schools on a par with any in her vicinity That's right, a progressive policy always pays a hundred cents on the dollar

Napoleon's shade must view with infinite disgust the hand-shaking that is going on between France and Russia The memory of the march to Moscow and of Crimea has evidently been entirely obliterated and the ... foes are now standing shoulder to shoulder practically ready to defy all Europe

Emeryville is ... ling Although only just weaned she is talking of an electric light service ... expensive ... and other metropolitan improvements That the ... town is ... is shown by the fact that it is estimated that a forty-cent tax will be sufficient to carry out all the enterprises planned

At last a systematic shipping system is to be established on our water front The announcement that wheat warehouses are to be constructed on the Adams wharves so that ships can unload coal and take on grain without redocking, means a practical use of our harbor facilities that will undoubtedly be attended with large profits Slowly but surely we are making a bid for the maritime business that could all along have been ours for the asking

Ex-Queen Lil is evidently making one last effort to get back her lost dominion She realizes that she has but little time to spare for if the Islands are under the present control when our Congress meets again it is reasonably certain that annexation will ensue Diplomacy and not force of arms is her plan of campaign and it is said that she is being heavily backed by the sugar interests If this last attempt fails it is safe to say she and her advisers will throw up the sponge

Now that silver is going to pieces and tariff is not a safe issue for Democrats it looks as if they are going to adopt the initiative and referendum as a basis for their oratory The initiative means that laws must originate with the people. Upon the request of a certain percentage of votes the state and municipal legislatures must pass any bill that the petitioners ask for Referendum means that these laws must then be submitted to the popular vote and endorsed before they shall be operative By this method every question would be submitted to the people legislatures would be simply figure-heads and the community would be in a constant stew and uproar over every question.

ADVERTISE CALIFORNIA.

The plan to advertise California in the East is a good one and Oakland should certainly furnish her proportion of the expense that will be entailed No one nowadays questions the truth of the statement that advertising pays and if this is so of an article how much more will it be of a city Many people are on the fence as regards their location Americans are restless anyhow and as they have none of the traditions that bind families in the old world to remain in one place all their lives they are ever ready to make a move if they think it will bring about the slightest advantage to themselves That many Easterners are on the verge of coming to California is certain The State has had some good missionary work done in its behalf of late by the hosts of Christian Endeavorers who were recently our visitors and we should follow up the good opinion thus created by evidences of our enterprise

A permanent exhibit in New York on the scale proposed could not fail to do good It would attract the attention of the hundreds of thousands of transient population that passes through that city annually and in addition to the permanent residents we would obtain it would divert to this direction a large percentage of the stream of tourists that constantly pour into the country The exhibition we can make is one that ... with fear possible from any other part of the United States for ... from our natural attractions our ... now commanding attention throughout the world firstly for their excellence and secondly for their variety

The expressions of opinion set forth when the subject was discussed at the Merchants Exchange show that not a note of discord will be sounded to the proposition It is hard to see anyhow where opposition could come from for the expense is trifling compared with the good results of the returns The ... make the display one of the State at large and not a sectional one should ... generally endorsed for it ... a unity of action instead of ... If we once get the people to California there is little fear that they will not see the northern part of the State as well as the southern end ... we can well afford to join hands ... and all pull together in behalf of a cause in which we are all so vitally interested

It ought to be easy to float canal stock yet the Nicaragua enterprise is languishing so hard that Japan thinks it may be able to get control of the situation There appears to be a disposition to immediately cut down the bidders bid but as a matter of fact those who are desirous of seeing the canal built should put the faps on the ... As soon as they can anywhere ... getting it America will of course step in and rush the thing through just ... we made an active move for Hawaii because Japan wanted it There is a ... of the dog-in-the manger business in our foreign policy after all and it is well that there is a nation like Japan to stir us up now and then

Now comes the news that instead of bringing down about $3 000 000 in dust the Yukon River boat Weare has only ... about a ... result of ... work It was lucky for the transportation companies that it was impossible to get new ... and out of Dawson City otherwise the large figures they have been making out of ... would have been loaded off in ...

The ... doesn't ... him much good He is developing into a veritable Hun Most ... his willingness to take ... against the United States Government He will see stars and ... further with that line of argument

A SEASONABLE SALMI.

The following story is told of Mrs Julia Ward Howe One day she appeared at a club of which she is a member with her bonnet wrong side front After some hesitation a member of the organization informed her of her mistake "What a blow to my vanity!" said Mrs Howe with a smile "I thought I was receiving an unusual amount of attention as I came down town in the car but attributed it solely to my attractions"

The record for royal travel is held by Queen Victoria. Since 1842, the year the Queen first entered a railway carriage she has traveled something like 2 000 000 miles This beats the Prince of Wales by about 500 000 miles and the next greatest royal traveler the Duke of Cambridge by nearly 1 000 000 miles

ARE YOU HUNGRY?

There is no need to remark that there is a right way and a wrong way to carve Most of us have sat in our chairs and held on in agony while a disciple of the wrong way attacked the inoffensive meat and murdered it cruelly In the first place the dish in which the meat is should be large to allow ample room for sliding

To carve a loin of veal or mutton begin at the small end and cut the ribs apart A fillet of veal should be cut first from the top and in a breast of veal the breast and brisket should first be cut apart and then cut in pieces

A sirloin of beef should be placed on the platter with the undercut underneath Thin-cut slices should be taken from the side next the carver then turn over the roast and carve from underneath A portion of both should be helped

A leg of mutton should be carved across the middle of the bone first and then from the thickest part till the gristle is reached A few nice slices can be cut from the smaller end, but it is usually hard and stringy

A ham can be served in several ways —by cutting long delicate slices through the thick fat down to the bone, by running the point of the knife in a circle in the middle and cutting thin circular slices thus keeping the ham moist or by beginning at the knuckle and slicing upward The last mode is the most economical

A tongue should be carved in very thin slices its delicacy depending on this The slices from the center are considered the most tempting and should be cut across and the slices taken from both sides with a portion of the fat at the root

In carving fish practice is required in order to prevent the flakes from breaking The choicest morsels of all large fish are near the head, the thin parts come next, the flavor nearest the bone is never equal to that on the upper part A fish knife should be used in carving

Fowls should be placed breast up Put the fork into the breast to steady the bird, then cut off the wings and legs Cut off the breast bone so as to leave the well browned skin over it and the white meat cut off the side bones and divide what is left in two from the neck down Remove the second joint from the leg and the wing

CAUSTIC COMMENT.

What Fresno People Think of the Spat Between the Christian Pastors

Commenting upon the recent spat between the two Oakland Christian Church pastors the Fresno Republican has the following to say

Down in Oakland two pastors of the same denomination have had a falling out and the attendant smash of theological crockery naturally is of interest to the people of the wicked world The clerical combatants are Rev Glen Mc Williams the Rev Edwards Davis and their mutual exposure is more or less complete Rev McWilliams says that Rev Davis is not sincere" that he 'does not preach religion,' that he is well qualified to deal with that class of Christians who wear low necked dresses and who court Satan" that Davis is all right in the belief must give the devil his due—not that Mr Davis is a devil but a good deal more of much the same sort

And in response Rev Davis says of Rev McWilliams He has posed after a picture of mine taken years ago purchased a similar hat collar and watch-guard He will likely sell these at a discount now If that charge does not damn the Rev McWilliams forever, will somebody mention a charge that would?

It will be remembered that these reverend combatants are shepherds and disciples of the One who said Judge not that ye be not judged and 'Blessed are the peacemakers' They are supposed to be inculcating the doctrine of "Peace on earth good will to men" Yet in rancor and spleen they vie with any two old fishwives of the market They pose as the representative of the One who went about doing good, while their angry words might have been born of Satan

Such episodes as this do more to discredit the church than the preaching of these men can in fifty years The gentile world has its eye on such events and it makes its own mental notes of disparagement It is in vain to say that this is not the fruit by which the tree should be judged for wisely or unwisely, the world will respond "If the good tree has no power to prevent the appearance of this bastard fruit on its branches wherein lies its efficacy?" Say that this is poor logic Very well, but it is the logic of the world, and it is the world with which the church has to deal

And this unseemly and unchristian wrangle of the Oakland clergymen is by no means an isolated instance The internal strife of the churches is a part of local history wherever you go quarrels under the cloak of religions are a common thing Is it any wonder that many people look askant upon the churches? Perhaps the prefer to do their quarreling out in the wicked world

This is written in no spirit of hypercriticism On the contrary, it is written with a firm conviction that the church should do a great work of good in the world and with a regret that it so often turns from that work to engage in unchristian warfare within its ranks It is written with the knowledge that there is no higher code of morals than the simple one of Christianity, and with the feeling that it is deplorable that church membership so often departs from following that code It is written, too, with the assurance that no man can so effectively drag down and belittle the church in its great work as can the man whom it delegated to be a spiritual guide and adviser If these Oakland parsons are imbued with the spirit of genuine religion—and Rev McWilliams may be—they cannot too keenly regret this ugly display of themselves

Why Is It?

"Will you please tell me why you of all persons propose to join a golf club?" asked the girl You don't know a thing about the game"

No

"And you haven't any afternoons off in which to learn it

No"

And a pink coat won't be a bit becoming to you"

No"

And there's no particular mental stimulus in such a club"

None"

And, if you don't know or care anything about the game you will simply be bored to death by the constant babble about 'holding out' and 'reckoning up' and handicaps and whether Mrs Stoke-Smith looks more attractive in a Tam or a sombrero and—

"I know I shall"

"Then why in the world do you want to join? You haven't—no, I can't believe it! You're not a social struggler?"

'No, but I'm a literary struggler, and you see it's expedient for me to get in touch with the smart set They make such good copy

"Wouldn't it do just as well if you read Richard Harding Davis" the girl asked thoughtfully It would be so much more economical You know you have to pay every five minutes at a golf club

I know but as the Bookman says Davis' aristocracy is so unreal It is what the smart set would like to be, and not what it is He writes for the very young girl and the very young man Now I shall address myself to the retired member who's been through it all I shall write it up as it is

How very unkind" she remonstrated

I didn't realize they were as bad as that" said the man

Well the only points of difference I can discover between the smart set and others is that in the smart set they all drink more and all the men smoke at table right in the women's faces and call each other's wives by their first names and——

Oh but you don't understand" the man interrupted They have attained a point of good comradeship where the little refinements and civilities of life are beneath them Whereas people in other stations can't afford to overlook them

The girl thought a moment Why do you suppose it is that they always pair off with each others' husbands and wives instead of their own? It isn't always a matter of preference, is it

Oh no! It's merely a matter of form —Chicago Inter-Ocean

How Prince Luigi's Party Scaled Lofty Mount St. Elias.

SCIENCE WILL BE BENEFITTED.

Unrivalled Glaciers Caught and Preserved by the Camera.

THE SUMMIT 18,100 FEET HIGH.

None of the Climbers Were Lost or Injured in the Effort.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. —The Herald says:

Prince Luigi of Savoy, Duke of Abruzzi, and nephew of the King of Italy, is at the Waldorf, having reached the city after accomplishing what [illegible] impossible [illegible] climbing to the summit of Mount St. Elias.

[illegible] Prince Luigi is [illegible] He has avoided conversing about the character of the work he and his party had to perform [illegible] the summit [illegible] the scientific facts he has added to the former knowledge of the mountain. When [illegible] Italy [illegible] which will [illegible] value to the [illegible] world interest [illegible] phenomena of great altitudes [illegible] photographs of [illegible] interest [illegible] this most [illegible] unfortunate [illegible] 00 feet have no equals [illegible] world. [illegible]

[illegible] insurmountable [illegible] Mount St. Elias. [illegible] Italy and until [illegible] Prince Luigi declines even to converse [illegible]

[illegible] He was enthusiastic over [illegible] When asked [illegible] [illegible] until he [illegible] thought the [illegible] was humorous.

Why he began [illegible] [illegible] We were told [illegible] dangers which we would certainly encounter but we went [illegible]

[illegible] great difficulty [illegible] question of transportation [illegible] was necessary [illegible] [illegible] it was essential that [illegible] [illegible] to solve the difficulty and [illegible]

What was the character of the [illegible]

You will be surprised to know that [illegible] [illegible] We had never [illegible] [illegible] the top after [illegible] [illegible] climbing. The sensation which we experienced when at an altitude of more than 14,000 feet was chiefly rapid and difficult respiration. The [illegible] of the [illegible] last steps of the journey difficult, but the [illegible] was more than [illegible] by the view which we obtained at the summit. These photographs [illegible] taken which I believe will open the eyes of the mountain climbers. Our chief regret was that we were unable to carry a really large camera on account of its weight. The one we had, however, presented an excellent field and from its photographs we expect to obtain admirable results. The most difficult part of the trip was from the divide. From this point it required eleven hours to gain the top. We had [illegible] adventures and every one of the party, including the [illegible] and the guides [illegible] we were so well protected against accidents or [illegible] no one came to harm. We came down the slope of the mountain to the divide in a little more than two hours. There was some danger, perhaps, in this, for the ice bridges and snow bridges under the influence of the [illegible] sun had melted somewhat and we were not always able to trust ourselves to them [illegible] hazardousness [illegible] all was forgotten in the excitement which was such and sent the whole system tingling with exercise. We found the mountain to be, according to our instrument, 18,100 feet high. I say this of course with the understanding that after more careful mathematical application we may find that the height will vary twenty or thirty feet. While it was cold at the summit it was not excessively so, our thermometers indicating twelve degrees below zero. In a [illegible] it would have been to our advantage had the temperature remained at that point.

HOPE IN WEYLER.

Evangelina Cisneros Would Like to Talk to the Butcher.

CONFIDENT IN HER CASE.

Could Convince the Leader That She Is Unjustly Jailed.

BERRIS' LETTERS SENT TO SPAIN

A Belief That She Will Be Liberated and Sent Away.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A special to the World from Havana says:

The World correspondent went to see Evangelina Cossio Cisneros in her prison. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays are visiting days at the women's jail and the ante room on those days is full of people from 12 to 4 o'clock [illegible] who have come to condole with and bear good tidings to their relatives or friends.

When the World correspondent asked to see Miss Cossio he was allowed to pass through the outside iron gate into a small room with a stone floor in one of the walls of which was painted in large letters "Sala de Justicia."

Evangelina was sent for upstairs and while waiting the correspondent had the opportunity to notice some of the other women who were receiving visits. One was a well dressed woman who had murdered her husband. Sitting next to her was a good looking woman who had been caught selling ammunition and supplies to the insurgents. She was a political prisoner. Next to her was a woman who kept a lodging house in Havana and had rented a room to two men whom she did not know. While their baggage was being [illegible] the [illegible] police seized [illegible] trunks [illegible] arms and ammunition. The men escaped but the landlady was arrested. She knew nothing of the case but was held responsible and is now waiting for the result of the full and long investigation.

A few minutes after the arrival of the correspondent Evangelina came [illegible] the cells and walked [illegible] across the end of the court and out through the gate into the [illegible] room. She is [illegible] beyond question. She is petite of figure and [illegible] in all her movements. Her manners are perfect and her self-possession wonderful.

She said she could not make any statement [illegible] because her friends had told her not to, but she talked quite freely of her hopes and fears and answered questions seemingly without reserve. She said she did not receive her friends from the outside because she was afraid of treachery and preferred to be content with the rations of the jail.

There are about eight or ten other women in this same [illegible] room. All looked clean and respectable and all were white women. One of them was a distinguished looking lady of about 50 years of age with handsome gray hair. Some alleged political offense is the cause of her imprisonment.

Evangelina is the most animated of all. She is the star boarder and receives more attention and has more visitors than the others. She said that the letters she received from Colonel Berris on the Isle of Pines and which on an evidence of his guilty intentions towards her were all sent by her friends to Austria and from there direct to Spain to the queen regent. She says if they could be produced before a fair court his conviction would be certain. The Colonel says that he wrote her but one letter and in that granted the permit to her father to travel as a peddler.

She could not describe the events of the night of July 26, 1896, further than to say that she knew Colonel Berris was coming to her house that night because his secretary had told her so. She opened the door when he knocked. As to how she was seized or by whom she would not say. She escaped from the house and was caught and arrested the following morning and brought to Havana.

She says that the best favor any one could do her would be to secure for her an interview with General Weyler. She says:

I could convince him if he would only hear me.

In government circles nothing has been heard from Madrid in relation to transferring her to a convent. Opinions differ as to whether such a change would be of benefit. If her case is let alone for a while she will be released and perhaps ordered to leave the island.

A SPRIG OF ROYALTY TO VISIT LENOX.

How Prince Alexander George Will Be Entertained in the East

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Journal from Lenox, Mass., says:

Aristocratic residents of Lenox are anticipating pleasurably the contemplated visit of Prince Alexander George, the youngest son of the Duke and Duchess of Teck.

The Duke will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrell-Hoffman at their magnificent country seat, Brockhurst. The date of the Prince's arrival is not yet fixed but preparations are in progress befitting the reception of a royal personage.

Prince Alexander is 2[illegible] years old, a handsome manly chap, an athlete and sportsman. He is the brother-in-law of the Duke of York, the future King of England. His stay in America is limited. Probably three weeks will be passed at Lenox and some days at Philadelphia. Among the many plans for the prince's entertainment is a hunting trip beyond the Rockies.

ADAMS PREFERS CRIPPLE CREEK.

Bullets More Easily Avoided Than South American Fever

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, Sept. 3.—Geo. W. Adams of Cripple Creek arrived in this city today from the gold fields of South America. Fourteen months ago Adams left this city to try his fortune in South American mines. He went to the gold fields 300 miles from Georgetown, in company with eight Americans, remaining there eleven months. Of the entire party of nine he alone escaped death from the fatal fever. One by one he saw his companions die of the terrible disease, saw a hole scooped in the ground and their bodies twisted from pain covered with earth. He was attacked twice himself with the malady and all but died and finally, after seeing the last of the eight die in agony, he became terror-stricken and fled from the country—a country from which he says not one out of seventy-five white men ever return alive.

TO BEGIN TRAINING.

Track Captain Brown Issues Orders to the University Athletes

Track Capt. in Everett Brown of the University of California has issued the following open letter:

We had great odds to fight against last year but I do not believe that we will encounter so many this year. We have far better material to work upon than ever before and it already responds in me on behalf of the students last year's success cannot but be repeated. Stanford is still pursuing her methods of recruiting her team with the speedy men from the far north. Her latest additions are no doubt very formidable athletes but Stanford will again see next April that a few star athletes are bound to succumb to a healthy lot of well trained ordinary men. Therefore no student should hesitate in supporting and carrying out the methods that were pursued a year ago. Full training will commence next Monday.

THE EXCLUSION OF DUTCH SUGARS.

A Question Raised as to Their Liability to a Duty.

Treasury Officials Are Looking Into the Bounty of Holland.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The question of whether beet sugar exported from Holland to the United States shall be practically excluded from this country by the imposition of an additional duty equivalent to the bounty paid by the Dutch government is one which the Treasury Department will have to decide in the near future. At present such sugars are allowed to come in on the payment of the duty fixed by the sugar schedule in the tariff bill with the understanding that if it is found that the additional duty applies it shall be paid.

Section five of the Dingley Act provides that when any country shall pay either directly or indirectly any bounty or grant upon the exportation of any article or merchandise it shall be subject, when imported into the United States, to an additional duty equal to the export bounty. This is aimed especially at sugars and the Treasury Department has called upon the State Department to secure through the consuls and ministers abroad detailed information as to all export bounties paid by foreign governments.

It has been generally assumed that the new Dutch sugar law which went into effect yesterday provided for an export bounty but this seems to be open to considerable doubt. A draft of this law has been forwarded by the minister at The Hague. The Treasury officials have not yet examined it carefully enough to decide whether it provides in any direct way for a bounty on exportation. The draft of the law shows that premiums are allowed on beet sugars produced and withdrawn from the sugar factories, but this does not seem to be an export bounty as it is the same on sugars withdrawn for home consumption as on those shipped abroad. It is doubtful whether this can be construed to be a bounty or grant upon the exportation of the sugar and this may lead to a decision that no additional duties can be levied on Dutch sugar on account of the bounty. [illegible] [illegible] in the American [illegible] Austria and [illegible] countries [illegible] [illegible] they must pay additional duties equivalent to the bounties.

NO FREE DELIVERY.

The Annexation Suit Must Be Settled Before Action Is Taken

In a San Francisco morning paper there appeared yesterday the following item:

Postal Inspector H. P. [illegible] [illegible] making [illegible] which by Colonel [illegible] recently annexed to Oakland will have free postal delivery. This will [illegible] carriers employed and two substations will be located.

In conversation with Councilman [illegible] City [illegible] same day [illegible] would be put into effect in outlying districts only when the courts shall have declared that the districts in question have been legally annexed and not before.

This delay is rendered necessary by the suit which some people in the annexed district are [illegible] to bring to have the recent annexation election declared illegal. Had it not been for this suit the residents of Temescal and [illegible] might have had a free postal delivery system at an early day. As it is now they will have to wait a long time for the suit to be [illegible] things and by the time the suit reaches the Supreme Court and a decision is rendered many residents in the annexed district may have passed away.

University Students Decide to Abolish Class Rushes.

FENCING IN THE GRIDIRON.

Mourning Over the Death of Ray Simpson, a U. C. Senior.

HAPPENINGS IN ALAMEDA.

George Stinson Tells of His Experiences at Copper River.

BERKELEY, Sept. 3.—The Associated Students met this morning and formally decided to suppress all rushing in the night, between classes. The fearful injuries received in the last rush decided the students to take formal action against rushing.

Resolutions to that effect were adopted by the students. Philip Phayer, president of the Associated Students, presented the matter to the assemblage and action was quickly taken.

At the drill hour, Monday, the captains of cadet companies will collect an assessment from each man to help defray the physician's bills of the injured students.

The death in San Francisco Wednesday of R. V. Simpson, a member of the Senior Class of the University, has caused considerable regret among his fellow students. The young man's death was due to an operation for appendicitis. Yesterday the Senior Class met and appointed a committee to draft resolutions of regret, consisting of Miss C. Sanderson, Miss Lillian Parker, W. C. Russell, A. Baer and G. J. Rector, and a second committee to represent the class at the funeral, consisting of E. J. Rainey, J. A. Young, C. M. Bufford, J. W. Legget and W. B. Creed.

Simpson had made a reputation for himself as an able student and was one of the leaders in the Students' Congress.

The Oakland and San Francisco Young Men's Christian Association will hold a join field day on the University of California cinder path, next Thursday afternoon. Cheek, Dawson and Jackson of Berkeley will enter.

Football Manager Everett Brown has been granted permission to fence in the football field by Lieutenant Cloman. Lieutenant Winn refused to allow the field to be surrounded by a fence, and used it as a parade ground.

The first issue of the term of the University Magazine appeared today. It is adorned with a new cover, designed by Sidney Ormer of the Mark Hopkins Institute, and is considerably larger than any number issued hitherto. The new board of editors and directors is as follows: Counselors, Professor William Carey Jones and Professor Thomas R. Bacon; ex-officio alumni editors, Hon. William R. Davis and James Sutton; student editors, H. A. Overstreet '98 (chief editor), Miss Marion Whipple '98, Miss Mary Bell '98, Charles E. Fryer, '99, Harold Symmes '99; business manager, Will C. Russell.

Professor Jaffa is at Pacific Grove, where he is conducting a farmers' institute.

ALAMEDA NEWS.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 3.—An interesting account of the Copper River country is given by George Stinson, a miner, who just returned from that country. A year ago he started from Cook's Inlet up the Matanuskie River and crossed over the divide finding a very large lake, over one hundred miles long which is not recorded on any map. Stinson went around this body of water until he came to a river which he followed down into Copper River. This trip took several months to make and was full of hardships.

Several claims were located by Stinson at the head of the river, where there are rich veins of gold and copper. The course down the Copper River contains innumerable hardships. There are several glaciers, and for four miles the river runs under one of them. The miner stated that he had built and abandoned seven rafts on his way down. The [illegible] miles took nearly [illegible] months. The river is swift and [illegible] the Copper River Indians. Mr. Stinson considers it a fine race of men. They are tall, live out doors all the year around and wear little clothing. They are strong and athletic. They are usually friendly and will not pick a quarrel without a strong provocation. One of the lost arts is theirs, Mr. Stinson says, namely the art of hardening copper and welding it to iron. They present the strictest secrecy in regard to the process.

Mr. Stinson will return north Monday. He expects, with the aid of former experience and the help of Indians to gain his claim on the Copper River about March.

Deputy Poundmaster John Josephs was yesterday convicted on a charge of using vulgar language, preferred by Mrs. Lyons at 2010 Pacific Avenue. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or spend fifty days in jail. During the noon recess, Josephs met Thomas Goff, also a deputy poundmaster, who had testified against him at the trial, and at once attacked him. Goff's jaw was broken, and several minor injuries were also inflicted by the irate Josephs. He was at once arrested on a charge of battery. The former offense occurred while Josephs was engaged in catching a dog.

The Ladies' Missionary Aid Society has been organized at the German Evangelical Lutheran Christ Church, with twenty-two charter members. The following officers have been elected: President, Mrs. H. Wichmann, vice president, Mrs. Charles Lindemann; secretary, Mrs. Theodore Victors, treasurer, Mrs. A. Kuchmeister; organist, Mrs. W. Brandes. The formal installation will be held Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Oehler and Mrs. Greenwald of Sacramento, Mrs. J. Everding and Mrs. C. C. Burnett of San Francisco made addresses at the first meeting.

A dinner will be given at the Unitarian fete today. This evening is Mexican night. The programme last evening was as follows: Overture, Wilhelm's Band; readings by Paul Davis, "Jealous Wife," "Deacon's Story," "McCarty's Funeral," vocal solo, Mrs. Allardyce; readings by Paul Davis, "That Was Jim," "Katherina's Visit," "The Bells;" piano solo, Mrs. Allardyce, readings by Paul Davis, "Yarn of the Navy," "The Ghost," "O'Hoolihan's Nomination Speech."

Good authority is claimed for the statement that Congressman Hilborn before leaving Washington, gave the name of Theodore W. Leydecker of Alameda to the President for the office of Postmaster. Among the candidates for the position, who think they have a fair prospect of success are J. W. Jackson, M. S. Taylor, T. W. Leydecker, George Bew, C. M. Culver and C. W. Petry.

A number of young people of this city are endeavoring to arrange a tennis club. A meeting will be held Saturday evening at the First Presbyterian Church to effect organization. Among the leaders are J. E. Baker, Dr. W. K. Hughes, Mr. Otis, Miss Alice Baker, W. Barber and Frank and Percy Boldwell.

The daughter of Mrs. Margaret Garcia and the late Jose Garcia, Miss Louise Garcia, died Wednesday evening at the home, 1113 Park avenue. Miss Garcia was born in San Francisco. She was twenty-two years of age. The funeral will be held tomorrow from St. Joseph's Church. The remains will be entered in Holy Cross Cemetery, San Mateo.

A number of Alamedans, among them City Clerk Lamborr and J. R. Sloan, secretary of the North Side Improvement Club, attended the meeting of the Board of Trade of San Leandro Wednesday evening. The object of the meeting was to discuss the tidal canal matter in order that a combined plan of action between the two towns might be decided upon which would hasten its completion. Colonel Hastings, City Clerk Lamborn and J. R. Sloan spoke in favor of the project. Colonel Lyman Bridges wanted San Leandro to have a canal of its own. It was thought by the others that the Government would not be likely to favor that proposition. After much discussion, a committee of five were appointed, which will confer with a similar committee from Alameda.

The yachts Fawn and Sea Fox will represent the Encinal Yacht Club in the race for the Macdonough medal on Admission Day. A. M. Clay will command the Sea Fox, and Frank O'Connor the Fawn.

COMING EVENTS.

The Rev. Alfred Kummer, who recently returned from Alaska, will give an illustrated lecture tonight in the First M. E. Church on "Alaska and the Klondyke." Dr. Kummer has 125 pictures of the northern country, and is thoroughly conversant with his subject.

James W. Erwin of San Francisco will give a lecture this evening in the First Presbyterian Church. His subject is entitled "An Evening in Childhood's Realm." A collection of 150 pictures will be shown through the stereopticon. Childhood in every form from the street waif to the Christ Child, will be pictured. The proceeds of the lecture will be for the West Oakland Free Kindergarten.

W. R. Vickery of San Francisco will address the California Probation Society this afternoon upon "Art in the Kindergarten."

President David Starr Jordan of Stanford University has accepted the invitation of H. J. Whitcher of the programme committee to address the section Sunday evening, November 14th, at Becker's Hall on Washington street.

Next Sunday September 5th J. J. Valentine, president of Wells, Fargo & Co., is to speak before the Oakland section upon "Social Progress."

The Rev. C. H. Hobart, pastor of the First Baptist Church will be tendered a reception tonight by the ladies of the church, and all friends and members of the church are cordially invited to be present. The reception is in the nature of a welcome home to Dr. Hobart, who has just returned from the East.

AT THE FAIR.

Successful Entertainments Given at the Sacred Heart.

Last night was one of the most successful at the Sacred Heart Fair so far. The Catholic Knights of America were the hosts of the evening and attended in large numbers. At the refreshment booth, the matron, Mrs. McDonald, and her assistants were kept busy.

From a financial standpoint the evening was a remarkable success.

Tonight the members of Company N, League of the Cross Cadets will have charge of the programme. An exhibition drill will be one of the most interesting features, supplemented by selections by Mr. Foster, the pianist; vocal solo by Frank Jacobs, and Mr. King and others.

A Benefactor Dead.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—J. Q. Adams Fritchey, a wealthy retired attorney of St. Louis, formerly of Harrisburg, is dead of spinal disease at Atlantic City. He was 67 years old. He presented to the University of Michigan one of its finest collections of geological specimens. Several years ago he purchased a tract of land in California with the object of determining whether the tropical plants would thrive in that region.

LITERARY NOTES.

There may exist those who sanction the conduct of Brown University in expelling Professor Andrews, but it is very evident that the editor of the Arena and the author of "The Bond and the Dollar" and "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" does not. "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" appeared in the July number of the Arena, in answer to Henry Clews, the well known Wall street banker and millionaire. It was a true and startling exposé of the workings of the most colossal conspiracy of our time, and well deserves the popularity that it has gained. It is our belief that "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" will figure as prominently in the next political campaign as "The Bond and the Dollar" did in the last.

Leslie's Weekly has a double page panoramic view of the beach at Atlantic City at bathing hour, during the recent visit of the League of American Wheelmen, which is one of the largest and finest pictures ever made with a camera. A photomosaic of "Tag Rally Round the Ice Wagon" on a hot day, in the down town tenement district of New York, is on the front page of Leslie's, which also contains Reuterdahl's sketches of the manoeuvers of the Illinois Naval Militia at Chicago; "Midway Coney Island," with its breezy Bowery and other living pictures; the architectural splendors of the Tennessee State Centennial Exposition at Nashville; "An Aerial Navigation Problem," with an illustrated account of the latest experiments in sky cycling, by Carl E. Myers, the well known aeronautical engineer, and a page of illustrated news from abroad. John Bonner writes picturesquely of "The Land of the Oregon Pine" and the marvelous resources and development of the State of Washington. Harvey Holt Cahoon discusses "The New Congressman's Wife." The fiction of this week is "Princes Have Done as Much," by Robert C. V. Meyers.

Old Dover, New Hampshire, is the oldest town in New Hampshire, settled in 1623. It had a trying history in the Indian period, and came to its growth through great tribulation. It played a good part in the time of the Revolution, when Jeremy Belknap was the minister of the old First Parish, and in the anti-slavery time, when it was the home of John P. Hale, and today it is a bright and busy manufacturing town. Its interesting story is told by Miss Caroline Harwood Garland, the librarian of its public library, in the September number of the New England Magazine, and all the lovers of the old town have reason to be grateful to her, for their town has certainly never been so well presented to the general public. The artist has admirably supplemented Miss Garland's pen, a great mass of well chosen and well executed pictures adding to the interest of her pages.

The following letter from President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University to the publishers of the Riverside Literature Series, in its reference to the relative progress of Eastern and Western schools in the use of literary masterpieces, illustrates well that trend of mind which makes him a leader. Not he, but the thing he observes, is responsible for his opinion.

"I think that you have done a great service to the common schools of the United States by issuing in cheap form unabridged masterpieces of the best English and American authors, to be used in place of the ordinary 'readers.' For some reason or other, Western schools seem to have been more ready than Eastern schools to adopt this great improvement."

It will be difficult to find any better advice in regard to studying a masterpiece of literature than that given by Superintendent William H. Maxwell of Brooklyn, N. Y., in what he has said about the study of Longfellow's "Evangeline." He advises that the poem be read at least three times. First, for the sake of becoming acquainted with the narrative; second, to obtain clearer conceptions of the characters, etc., and for the purpose of dividing the poem into parts for closer study, and third, for a careful analysis of the poem and a study of the words contained in it.

Kirk Munroe, teller of healthy stories for healthy boys, has a new book now ready by the Lothrop Publishing Company. It is "The Ready Rangers," and is a story of sport, adventure and self-help.

The Lotus for August-September combined is on hand with a striking cover and with a table of contents that is quite fetching, in that it bespeaks a delving into the unique at every turn. Prominent among its features is a folio of prison verse signed No. 882. If the editor can prevent the escape of this prisoner, he has a literary gold mine. Carmen Harcourt Austin Wallis has a breath from Mexico with a Chinese story of self abnegation, "An Yeus Penance." A love story in brief, "The Faith of the Faithful," is by Charles Fletcher Scott. Myrtle Reed discusses the question of life in a short poem, "The Loom of Life." A set of verse for Oriental language is instilled with her verse, "Metempsychosis," by Grace Hibbard. Henry R. Remsen appears with some delicate verse, "The Anemone," "The Leper," a sketch in the desert, by Leonard H. Robbins, is a powerful pen picture of anguish that occupies a page. "The Confession of a Dead Man," a fantasy of a self murdered soul, treating of the irony of love returned, is by Egbert W. Fowler. "Monotony," a poem by Stuart Acheson, tends to lull one into contentment even with a glare of sun in one's eyes. Other poems are by J. Lovering and Gail Leigh. "The Sons of Aberneyl," a romantic story of the medieval world, picturing the old religion in its kindest and most human guise, is by Martin Birnbaum. "A Book of Fairisles," by Walter Blackburn Harte, in his inimitable style, is a glittering review of Miss Dawson's "An Itinerant House and Other Stories." "An Incident," by Plato G. Emery, is a very realistic street car sketch. About as clever a paraphrase of "Love's Woes" as has ever happened is spread in three columns of verse across the center pages; it is by Gotthold J. Ollendorff. "Bubble and Squeak," in its usually delightful vein, fills out the number.

The Lotus' characteristic marginal illustrations, clever head-and-tail pieces and other drawings are from the pen of Ryan Walker, who is better known, but not better represented by his political caricatures which have won him distinction throughout the country. The name of a new editor, Frank A. Gulley, appears, although the hand of W. B. Harte, the distinguished essayist, who has heretofore presided, is still seen throughout the number.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for September 6, 1897, are: "Don Diego's Treasure, the Experience of an American Typewriter Girl in Mexico," by Gilbert Cunningham; "The Coming of the Gold Seekers," a long review of the new volume of Theodore H. Hittell's "History of California," and a gossipy letter from New York.

Notable features of Outing for September include a most timely description by Edward Spurr of the trip from the coast to the Klondyke. This trip is via the Chilcoot Pass, and it gives detailed information which will be eagerly read. The article is profusely illustrated from photos taken upon the spot. In a "Vancouver Salmon," Ed W. Sandys well describes the other end of British Columbia. Capt. Kennedy writes of "Regatta Week at Larchmont"; Malcolm W. Ford of "Specialization in Athletics," and Paul E. Jenks takes the reader "Thro' Sunny France Awheel." The fiction is "A Romance Among the Ice Birds," by E. E. Peake. Excellent short tales of sport and adventure lend the needful variety to an excellent number.

The newspapers are the mines from which a knowledge of actual economic and social life is to be obtained. But their day to day treatment of events is necessarily desultory, and the ore must be sifted and refined to make it of permanent value to the student and investigator. In the departments of notes upon municipal government and sociological topics, "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science" has undertaken this task for its readers. Professor E. R. Johnson has done a like service in another field, in a series of notes on "Current Transportation Topics" in the September issue of this journal. In non-technical language he has ably summarized recent decisions of the Supreme Court which are of fundamental importance to the railroad interests of the nation.

The September number of "How to Grow Flowers" is an unusually interesting and valuable one. It is devoted largely to the culture and care of winter blooming flowers. "Bulb growing in Holland" is an article of great value. It is written by an extensive grower of Dutch bulbs, R. A. Beerlecost, and gives a great deal of interesting information. Eben E. Rexford writes of "Fall Work in the Garden" and a number of other leading floral writers discuss seasonable topics.

A new book by Mary E. Wilkins is an event. This year's issues through the Lothrop Publishing Company a volume of verse for children, with the delightfully attractive title of "Once Upon a Time."

The tramp is the bugbear of rural communities, and when he is imported into cities he becomes a "problem." It is this problem which Dr. E. T. Devine discusses without affectation and with a pleasing directness in his article on "The Shiftless and Floating City Population" in the September issue of "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science." He introduces us to the life of these dregs of society in the lodging house and the sale beer dives of New York. He describes measures which have been taken with some success to limit this class and to save society from their increase, and indulges the hope that the presence of such a class may not be permanent. Besides the usual departments and an interesting summary by Professor E. R. Johnson of recent judicial decisions affecting railroads, the issue contains important articles on the "Problems of Political Science" by Professor L. S. Rowe, "The Philosophic Basis of Economics" by Professor Sidney Sherwood and "Administrative Centralization and Decentralization in England" by Dr. J. T. Young.

Miss M. L. Warren of Detroit, Mich., has prepared a book that should prove very popular with primary teachers. It is entitled "From September to June With Nature," and is adapted to the needs of first and second year pupils. A series of charming sketches of nature studies, beautifully illustrated, are added to the varying seasons, makes a book such as every school child ought to own. The publishers are D. C. Heath & Co. of Boston, who announce that the book will be issued September 15th.

It was discovered a few years ago that the entire content of a series of regular readers such as used to supply all the reading matter given to a boy during his eight years in the primary and grammar schools could be read through in one week by a diligent boy of average intelligence. Realizing the small amount of material supplied by the readers, teachers are now using a large amount of supplementary matter in all grades of school work. So great is the supply of such material that it becomes important for the teacher to make a careful choice of what he will use. Literature of power, as it is sometimes called, has very properly received the preference. Such literature may be defined to be that which has the power to stir the human soul, to arouse men to action, to give them a love for country, for home, for church, for honest labor, etc. It is not hard to find plenty of illustrations of literature of this sort. It is known that during our civil war the patriotic writings of Longfellow, Holmes, Whittier and Emerson, recited as they were in school and at home, sent many thousands of men to the front. These writers were the best recruiting officers our country had. To illustrate the many sidedness of a great poet and the amount of good that may be derived from studying him reference may be made to a little book published a few years ago as No. 12 of the Riverside Literature Series, entitled "Studies in Longfellow," by W. C. Gannett. This book is now being revised to date. In it will be found lists of poems relating to the Universal Church, to brotherhood, to the immortal life, to heroes and saints; to character, to the presence of God in nature, to history, the home, etc. Doubtless similar lists could be made, though not so full perhaps, of the writings of other American authors. These lists show how much may be obtained from the study of Longfellow, of history, of ethics, of patriotism, and in fact of almost all those things which help to prepare children for life.

DIED FOR LOVE.

Mysterious Chicago Suicide Was Vincent Park's Mistress.

SHE WAS FROM LOS ANGELES.

Park Was Well Known Here as Assistant of Spiritualist Forsyth.

A MAN OF MANY ALIASES.

Took the Girl Away From Her Home Only to Desert Her.

A light has been thrown on the mysterious suicide of a young girl in the Victoria Hotel, Chicago, Tuesday. It is now believed that the young woman was the mistress of a man named Vincent Park, who was well known in this city as the manager of a so-called spiritualist, Forsyth by name.

The dispatches announcing the suicide of the girl briefly stated that she registered under the name of Blanche Nelson, New York and afterwards told the hotel boy that she came from California.

She was seen at the Leland Hotel, Chicago, earlier in the day and inquired if a man named Forsyth was stopping there.

The girl was very pretty and was elegantly gowned. She wore a wedding ring engraved with the initials "A. M. E." Three collars owned by her were marked "L. H. G." "A. D. A." and "L. M." There was no other clue to indicate who or what she was.

Mrs. Forsyth who lives in this city, feels confident that the young woman was Park's mistress. Park is now in Chicago and it is supposed that the young woman followed him East and committed suicide when she found that she could no longer hold his fickle affections.

The theory is supported on the frailest facts. Mrs. Forsyth left her husband about six months ago owing to his ill treatment of her. Forsyth posed sometimes as a spiritualist and sometimes as an exposer of spiritualism. In all these dealings, Park acted as his confidential manager.

Forsyth lived in Alameda formerly and eloped with an Oakland girl. After she left him, he managed to gain possession of their little eighteen months old baby boy and took him away. The child has never been found by the mother since nor will the father disclose his whereabouts.

Forsyth and Park often spoke of a woman named "Lil" in Mrs. Forsyth's presence. She had come from Los Angeles to San Francisco with Park and later went north with the two men. The men never called her anything but "Lil" and the description of the young woman tallies with that of the Chicago suicide. She had dark hair and eyes, was rather short and plump, and always dressed well.

Forsyth is now supposed to be in Tacoma, but it is known that Park is in Chicago and it is believed that he is going by the name of Forsyth as the two men frequently interchanged names.

Forsyth had several aliases, among them were Dr. De Forrest, Adrian Chester, Arthur La Count and Clarence E. Chester.

Park was a handsome man and a good talker. He was about six feet tall and had dark eyes and hair.

"Lil" was very much infatuated with him and had given him several articles of value. It is supposed that she followed him to Chicago and later quarreled with him which drove her to take the fatal step.

The real identity of "Lil" remains concealed as no one save Park and Forsyth know much of her history.

A Letter From an Alameda Boy Tells of Their Trials at Chilcoot.

Harold Ward of Alameda has sent a letter from Skaguay to his father that contains much interesting information. He says in part:

"Arrived at Skaguay at 10 o'clock Friday night. As we cannot get our freight for three or four days, I suggested that Arthur Witcher and I go up Chilcoot Pass and Dr. Smith and Chris try White's and find out for ourselves which route is the most practicable, as all reports are not only erratic but confusing. In accordance with my suggestion, we started at 7 A. M. Saturday. We took along blankets, hard tack and a can of beef tea. Being green, we traveled fast. Arthur began to murmur about his feet, and while mine were dry, they were sore all right. We got to the foot of the hill at 3 o'clock and decided to push on to Sheep's Camp before dark, but we had to stop at the two mile limit and rest for an hour. We then passed up one and a-half miles of the very worse climbing I ever dreamed of, the steep grade not being so awful as the poor footing. One moment on a rock, the next in mire and slush, more slush and then more rock. I tell you, it is a horrible proposition. While the trail is something awful, a man can get over it, and unless others report very unfavorably we shall surely take this pass. Chris reports the White trail in a few words. Thirty-five hundred people strung along ten miles to the summit, one-half of whom are selling out and returning. Some are returning to go over Chilcoot, others are going to camp at Dyea till spring, and some are sitting on their thumbs weeping, and all in all the most miserable, disconsolate lot of men the sun ever shone upon.

"I know now why men new to this kind of thing are called 'tenderfeet.' 'Tender' distinctly applies to 90 per cent of all the feet on the trail. But we are going that pass if we have to go on hands and knees.

"Two men came in today for provisions and incidentally to deposit $40,000. It has helped some of the faint hearted just seeing it, and really it is a wonderful thing to see. It did our gang no harm.

"I feel sure we can get to Lake Linderman and camp there until it is frozen enough to sled, so if we get there and postal communication is not better than now, you may not hear again from us until April or May. But should such be the case, do not let a little thing like that worry you. We can worry enough for all our relations about now. If we want to. We do not suffer from cold and heat like we do at home. It sounds funny, but when it is not raining the air is very dry."

Savage people have a superstition that an evil eye may be cast upon a person to bring all sorts of trouble and misfortune. That seems like a pretty foolish notion; but it isn't much worse than some of the notions which civilized people indulge in. One worn out superstition is the belief that if a man inherits weak lungs from his parents he is pretty sure to die of consumption. The actual fact is that if such a man will only take proper care of himself he will really be safer from consumption than a careless person who has no inherited weakness. Carelessness is the real evil eye. Carelessness will develop a tendency to consumption in any body.

The lungs are composed of very delicate, sensitive tissue, even in the healthiest person; that is why they yield so quickly to the attack of tainted blood. If the blood is allowed to get impure and impoverished, and bile-poisoned, the seeds of consumption will spring up in the best kind of a constitution. The real consumption-taint is in the blood.

Hundreds of cases of so called "hereditary" consumption have been completely and permanently rooted out of the system by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, simply because it gives the blood-making glands power to pour a fresh abundant supply of rich, red, healthy, blood into the circulation. This drives out all poisonous and unhealthy germs. It stops the waste of tissue and the formation of morbid deposits; builds up fresh, normal, healthy lung tissue and solid, muscular strength.

In all the weakened debilitated conditions which are the forerunners of consumption, Dr. Pierce's Discovery is the most perfect nutritive and strength-builder. It is assimilated by the weakest stomachs.

A GARDEN FETE BY MOONLIGHT.

St. Paul's Work Chapter Plans an Elaborate Evening Entertainment.

The Beautiful Baker Home Will Be Thrown Open for Charity.

The Parish Work Chapter of St. Paul's Episcopal Church held a meeting this morning at the home of Mrs. George W. Baker and completed the plans for a garden fete to be given the evening of September 11th at Mrs. Baker's beautiful home on Madison street.

The fete will be on a night when the moon is full-orbed, but the ladies are not counting on the witching and uncertain light of the moon, but are going to make the gardens brilliant with particolored Japanese lanterns and glowing electric lights.

This fete will really open the social season and will be as brilliant an event as the formal opening of society's festivities should be.

Mrs. George Baker has generously offered her home with its beautiful surroundings and the tennis court adjoining will also be monopolized for the fete. There will be music on the lawn, dancing in the house and a picture gallery upstairs. There will be nothing lacking to give every one a chance to enjoy the evening as fancy and taste dictates.

The tennis court will be devoted to a promenade concert with the California Mandolin and Guitar Club hidden behind screens of flowers discoursing sweet music.

Attractive little tables will line the outer edge of the court yard. Lit by quaint lamps and lanterns the scene will recall the fairy-like pictures of the Paris boulevards in merry making times.

A score or more of well known society girls will have charge of the tables. Among them are Florence and Blanche Sharon, Chrissie Taft, Laura and Mona Crellin, Irene Baker, Bessie Palmer, Gretchen Burnett, Pauline and Ione Fore, Augusta Kett, Elsie McElrath, Mary Watney, Louise Simmons, Misses Leigh, Redfield, Madden, Tobey, Gaskill Colt, Brown and Harris.

Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. C. M. Converse and Mrs. J. T. McElrath will have the general supervision of the tables, while Mrs. James Allen will look after the musical programme.

Early in the evening there will be an excellent concert in the house.

Mme. Belasini Zilferer will be one of the soloists. The Reliance Club Quartette will give several selections and Alex Rosborough will make speeches a la Sol Smith Russell. Peter Haber's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

In the art room upstairs there will be open and link treasures from many of the local studios. They will all be for sale for charity.

In one corner of the court room spielers will call forth extra attractions. A well known society girl of San Francisco will read the past and unfold the future to all who may apply. She has the gift of peering into the future and seeing more than others can.

Ed Hume and his graphophone and Edwin R. Jackson and his silhouettes will also be attractions. A club man who prefers to keep his name mysteriously in the background, has promised to do some sleight-of-hand tricks that will outrival those of the lamented Hermann.

Mrs. Mark Requa and Mrs. Andrew Mosely will have charge of the lemonade booth and will be assisted by Misses Florinne Brown, Myra Prather, Ida Belle Parmer, Violet Whitney, Belle Mhoon, Jessie Glascock, Amy McKee and others.

The twenty ladies who are arranging the affair and will act as a reception committee are Mrs. L. Boswell, Mrs. H. C. Taft, Mrs. Andrew Mosely, Mrs. G. Hooper, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. A. Metcalf, Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. J. E. McElrath, Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. C. M. Converse, Mrs. Sam Bell, Mrs. Chas. Allen, Mrs. Frank L. Brown, Mrs. John T. Wright, Mrs. Jas Allen, Mrs. Frank Adams, Mrs. Sumner Burke, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Allen Babcock, and Mrs. John Currier.

AND KATIE WEPT.

The Erring Girl Cries After Listening to Kind Words.

Kate Goldman, arraigned in the Police court this morning with a ticket for Vallejo, where her mother lives, and promised to leave for that place this afternoon. Judge Allen then gave a guarded judgment.

License Inspector Mhoon who knew the girl before she was arrested, agreed to take her to Vallejo this morning, fearing that she would meet some of her old companions and be led to fail in her promise to leave the coast. Kate, however, refused to go till the afternoon train, although the kind words of Mhoon drew tears from the erring woman.

"You are the first one who has spoken to me for many months," said the weeping woman to Mhoon, "who has seemed to have my welfare at heart. You will never know how much good your kind words have done me."

The girl is the divorced wife of William Goodwin and as Kate Baldwin, was a well known society girl of Oakland and Vallejo. For several years she has been on a downward road, which resulted the other day in her being arrested as a common vagrant.

For Social Reforms.

A movement is on foot to establish a Union Reform League in San Francisco for the propagation of Christian Socialism. The movement is headed by the Rev. P. D. Bliss, the well known Episcopal clergyman, and among those interested are Dr. Wm Rader and Messrs. Whittaker, Dennison and Jas. Andrews of this city.

Welcomed to California

Senator George Perkins met United States Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama at the Sixteenth street station yesterday on his arrival from the East and welcomed him to the coast. Other prominent men also extended a welcome to the distinguished visitor.

THE BEET SEASON HAS NOW OPENED.

Sixty Tons Are Being Delivered at the Refinery Each Day.

Pleasanton Can Grow Enough of the Tubers for Two Factories.

The Alvarado sugar refinery commenced to receive beets this week, and about sixty tons per day are being delivered.

"We will be shipping 100 tons daily before the end of the week," said R. C. Peach, who represents the Alameda Sugar Company, "and by the time the season is fairly going the average will be about 200 tons a day. As far as we are able to ascertain, the crop is first class and the yield will be big. It was feared that the hot spell a little while ago would damage the beets somewhat, but there is no evidence yet of any injury."

The shipping of so many beets from the neighborhood of Pleasanton has caused the people of that section to congratulate themselves.

Manager Atkinson of the refinery was spoken to about this recently.

"The idea is all right," he said, "but you can't raise beets enough here to keep a factory running. The quality of the product of this valley cannot be beaten but it takes at least 10,000 acres of beets to supply a factory, and you have not got that much country here."

Tony Schweer and other gentlemen interested in the matter took Mr. Atkinson in hand and drove him around the valley. After the ride his ideas were much changed.

"This valley is bigger than I thought it was," he said. "There is room here for 25,000 acres of beets without drawing from the San Ramon country. I am convinced now that a factory here would be a profitable investment."

RUSHING THINGS AT THE HOP PLANTATIONS.

The Picking Will Be All Completed in Less Than Two Weeks.

An expert visited the hop yards in Pleasanton Monday, and the result of his his investigation was an order to rush work all along the line. It was his opinion that the crop is ripening so rapidly that unless it is picked within a very short time much of it will be a total loss.

The work has been going on very satisfactorily, the average picking being about seventy-five tons daily. The total yield is estimated to be in the neighborhood of 150 tons. Most of this has been contracted for by English hop buyers, and the shipping to them will commence in a few days. At the rate the work has been going on the crop will be harvested within the next ten days.

The record for a single day's work was broken Tuesday by a picker in section A, who weighed in 300 pounds. The best previous record was made by George Davis, who managed to pick 268 pounds in a day.

Miss Rockoff Will Lecture.

Miss Bertha Monroe Rickoff will give a critical and analytical reading tonight at the First Unitarian Church of "Quo Vadis." The discussion will be participated in by Dr. Charles W. Wendte and Colonel John P. Irish. The meeting is held under the auspices of the Starr King Fraternity and is the first of a series of meetings.

WHALL SHALL THE PLACE BE CALLED?

Supervisor Wells' Locality Causes a Lively Local Argument.

It Is Referred to as Dublin but is Known Legally as Dougherty.

Over Dougherty station way, where Supervisor Wells lives, the people are trying to get their settlement designated on the maps by its correct name. All over the country it is known as Dublin. The guide posts along the county roads point to "Dublin," while as a matter of fact there is no such place and never was.

The Supervisors will be appealed to, first, to change the signs on the guide posts; then the crusade to have a spade called a spade will be begun in earnest, and the person who is caught over there calling Dougherty Dublin will be strung up to the nearest electric light mast, says the Pleasanton Times.

C. M. Dougherty, Mayor of the town, is one of the chief agitators in the movement to have it treated with proper respect, and he thinks if the Supervisors will only change those sign boards the aim of the agitators will be accomplished.

"This place never was Dublin," said Mr. Dougherty, "although it is known by that name all over the county. Quite a number of years ago, the then Postmaster General Wilder came out here on a hunting trip. I entertained him and showed him around the country. During his stay he named this place Dougherty and it has since appeared in the postal guides and is known by the postal authorities by that name. That was the first and only christening.

"A long time previous to this a man named Colonel Freese, who was quite a character in this section, got in a fight with a young fellow near the cross-roads. He was getting the best of the scrap, when three or four others took a hand and the Colonel was unmercifully beaten.

"When he recovered himself he inquired where he was at.

"'Dougherty' some one informed him.

"'They ought to call this double-in,' he replied, and that remark of his has stuck to the place ever since."

MANY VIEWS OF LEADING OAKLANDERS.

Tell of How to Increase Population on This Side of the Bay.

"The Ten Million Club" is the name of a publication that is aiming to increase, by legitimate means, the population of this State. The means employed to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

In the current number Greater Oakland has a prominent place. Among those who have stated how the population of this city can be increased to 150,000 are Judge Gibson, M. J. Keller, W. R. Davis, W. W. Whitner, John A. Britton, E. A. Heron, F. Adams, Craigie Sharp.

All of these men have something practical to say.

John A. Britton sums them all up in the following remark: "Encouragement of immigration which will accomplish this should be the first of the concerted efforts, and to do that should be employed by the dominating intelligence spoken of first means that are common to any legitimate industry for the advancement of its lines of profit. Second—Legislation that will protect the investor in either business ventures or in the building of a home is necessary. Third—Legislation also that will devote the money received from taxable property to an economical administration, and one in which the public have confidence, to the extent of knowing that moneys collected are not diverted from the channels into which the tax paying public has a right to expect and demand it would be applied."

EXTRA FERRY BOAT FOR FREIGHT ALONE.

Will Be Run During the Busiest Hours of Each Day.

The ferry system will soon be increased by the addition of another boat, but it will not be for passenger travel. It will be exclusively for freight service and will be run during the busiest hours of the day only.

Some weeks ago there was more freight for one of the boats running between five and six o'clock than could possibly be carried. There was also a large number of passengers and the captain of the boat being mindful of the terms of his license, refused to carry any more. This brought matters to a point where it was recognized that more boats were necessary. For several hours during the day there will be a boat running at the pier every twenty minutes, but the third boat will bring no passengers.

It is said that to run trains every twenty minutes from the pier would involve an outlay of over a hundred thousand dollars for alterations.

OAKLAND NIGHT AT THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The Reliance Club Will Act as the Hosts on That Special Occasion.

The directors of the Mechanics' Fair have decided to set aside the night of September 15th as Oakland's special opportunity to exhibit herself in San Francisco. The Reliance Club of this city has the affair in charge and will be the reception and entertainment committee for the occasion. Last year the special distinction given to Oakland was a marked success, and thousands crossed the bay to attend.

The programme for the evening has not yet been arranged, but there is no doubt it will be as superior to any other as the interests of Oakland are superior to any other represented at the big show.

Ladies' Night.

This evening the Reliance Club will entertain its friends of the fair sex at the club rooms at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. An excellent programme will be rendered, after which the floor will be cleared for dancing.

The programme as partially arranged is as follows: March, Reliance orchestra; bass solo, Oliver Le Noir; specialties, George Bush, Frank Carty and Alexander Rosher; club swinging, Harry Gilder; farce, Thompson and Murray.

THE MAYOR HAS A VISITOR

A Journalist With a Claim Against the City Seeks Advice.

Says He Was Falsely Imprisoned for Insanity by the Police.

Mayor W. R. Thomas had an eccentric visitor this morning. Mayor Thomas thinks his visitor was a lunatic.

The man explained that his object in calling was to get some redress from the city for being falsely imprisoned a year ago. He was in the Post Office, he said, when he was arrested and incarcerated in the city prison without going to trial.

He said his name was Sanz Paul De Polanger and he filed the following communication with the Mayor:

"A day before the birthday of the immortal United States patriot, Washington, I was arrested by an Oakland police officer, kept a prisoner, charged with insanity in the Oakland City Hall prison. The arrest, imprisonment and insanity charges were without judical cause. I take the liberty to petition $200 for the lesson.

"DE POLANGER.

"Time, ten days."

De Polanger said that, at the time of his arrest, the police said he claimed to be Governor Cleveland and that he frequently wrote letters to George Washington. This, he claimed, was false.

The eccentric individual also left a postal card which was addressed to himself. It read:

"According to a legend the devil is a fallen angel. A human being, who falls morally, falls from angelism into devilism. A human being can also raise morally from devilism to angelism."

De Polanger is a medium sized man, about thirty years of age and was dressed in a rather shabby uniform of the National Guard. His face was a rather strong one and he wore long hair which was done up in cork screw curls.

When asked his business De Polanger answered proudly:

"I'm the Oakland correspondent for the 'Call,' 'Chronicle,' and 'Examiner.'"

The man left with the assurance of the Mayor that his case would be attended to.

A PAPER DEVOTED TO BEET CULTURE.

The Progress of a Great Industry Is Clearly Set Forth.

The beet sugar industry of California is growing very rapidly and in order to encourage and foster the trade a very interesting and bright weekly paper has been published. Its name leaves no doubt as to its purpose. It is called "The California Sugar Beet." It deals with the past and present conditions of the industry and is evidently written by people who know whereof they write.

As an example of how it deals with its subject the following article relative to the industry in this vicinity is a good sample:

"In Alameda and Contra Costa counties the manufacture of beet-sugar will be an important industry during the coming year. Two large plants will be put in operation very shortly, one at Crockett and the other at Rodeo. In each case old buildings, constructed originally for other purposes, will be used. The company that will operate these plants was incorporated in San Francisco, under the name of Starr & Co., and has a capitalization of $2,500,000 of which amount $83,000 has been subscribed and used in the purchase of the Crockett and Rodeo properties. The incorporators are A. W. Starr, N. D. Rideout, Alfred Burnister, Justus Greely, and Albert Miller. Senator Perkins is interested in the company. The Rodeo plant of the Union Stock Yards Company was never used for the purpose originally intended. The magnificent equipment has been standing idle for about five years. The buildings are all admirable, and it will not require a great deal of work to put them in shape to turn out sugar in great quantities. The original investment in this plant is said to have been over $1,000,000. The second plant is Starr & Co.'s flouring mill at Crockett. This mill was owned by George W. McNear, and has been operated by him of late. The flour machinery will be taken out and replaced by sugar refining apparatus. The machinery for this mill has already been ordered. The transfer of this property has already been made. Geo. W. McNear deeded it early in August to the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company, and the deed was placed upon record in Martinez. This is only a preliminary deed, for it will afterwards be transferred to the sugar company. The company has already had agents in the field interviewing farmers and ranchers in Alameda, Contra Costa, Solano, Napa and neighboring counties with relation to the raising of sugar-beets. They are offering $5.50 a ton."

The paper is issued by a company consisting of A. C. Mosworth, Geo. F. Weeks and Chas. P. Whiting.

TOO MUCH HOME WORK.

School Children Are Required to Over-Tax Their Strength.

One Case Where a Pupil Was Made to Commit Six Stanzas to Memory.

City Superintendent of Schools McClymonds has received frequent complaints of late in regard to the amount of home work that is required of pupils by the teachers in the various city schools.

It is claimed that the children are required to do much more work at home than they can possibly accomplish and it is said that one teacher who was behind with her class in English, required the pupils to commit to memory six stanzas of poetry in a single evening.

Superintendent McClymonds has sent the following circular on the subject to the various principals:

"Complaint has been made to this office that some of the teachers are requiring too much home work of their pupils.

"Principals will please file information in this office not later than Wednesday, September 8th, on the following:

"The number of subjects in which pupils of the various grades are required to do home work daily.—Give name of subjects.

"The time the average pupil of the grade is expected to devote to home work.

"Whether any of your teachers finding her class behind in any particular subjects, has required of her pupils an unusual amount of home study, in order to bring up the work.

"General information on the matter of home work.

"The amount of time in hours and minutes the pupils of the different classes in your school have for study in the class room."

VOL. XXXXIV. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 3, 1897. NO. 55.

ENDED HIS SUFFERING.

S. M. Babbitt Commits Suicide With a Large Carving Knife.

S. M. Babbitt, the well known capitalist, fatally stabbed and cut himself last night shortly after 6 o'clock. He died about 10 o'clock this morning. It was deliberate suicide during a fit of temporary insanity.

With a carving knife he slashed open his abdomen and died eighteen hours after his frightful attempt at self destruction.

Babbitt is about seventy years of age and has been ill for the past three years. His failing health made him subject to fits of extreme despondency whenhe would declare his perfect willingness to die.

He often spoke of how much he wished to die and used to make threats of committing suicide.

His despondency developed into a form of melancholia and he made two or three futile attempts at suicide.

A constant watch was kept over him to prevent his carrying out his oft-repeated threat.

Last night, with all the cunning of a crazed mind, he escaped for a few moments from his attendant and carried out his threat.

He managed to conceal a kitchen carving knife about his person unobserved by any one. He then told his wife and attendant that he thought he would go out for a little walk.

He excused himself for a moment and went upstairs to the bath room.

In a short time the attendant followed, only to find him lying on the floor of the bath room weltering in his own blood.

He had cut a slash nearly seven inches in length, beginning over the left seventh rib and extending down to the naval. The cut was so deep that it laid open his abdominal cavity.

Babbitt suffered from stomach trouble and it is supposed that he insanely tried to cut out the organ that had caused him such suffering.

He was hastily put to bed and physicians summoned. Although the latter arrived ten minutes after the cutting, nothing could be done to save the man.

Dr. L. S. Burchard, Babbitt's regular attendant, did what he could to ease his sufferings.

The family of Mr. Babbitt was hastily summoned and remained with him until death occurred.

He never spoke after he committed the frightful deed.

The wound is a remarkable one and of a nature that none but an insane man would make. He evidently aimed to strike a blow at his heart and then fearing that he might miss his aim, had drawn the sharp knife through his intestines.

So well had he done his work that the doctors were utterly unable to do anything but ease the sufferings of the dying man.

Babbitt lived at 1964 Webster street and was for many years one of the most prominent men in Oakland. He was vice-president of the California Bank from its organization until three years ago, when failing health compelled him to relinquish all active business.

Mr. Babbitt was a native of Ohio and was 72 years of age. He came to California in early days and was for many years in the commission business on Eleventh street. In 1883-84 he served as Councilman from the Second Ward and was at that time thoroughly in touch with local politics.

He came to California in the early forties, but later returned to Illinois, where he purchased a farm from his father.

During the Rebellion he served as United States marshal. Later he engaged in the lumber business and followed this until 1869, when he moved to another county in Illinois. In 1874 he came with his wife and family to California. He established himself in this city as a commission merchant and was the senior member of the firm of Babbitt, Manuel & Gilpin.

He leaves a wife and two children, Mrs. Z. T. Gilpin, wife of City Treasurer Gilpin, and Mrs. Edward Owen, wife of Deputy City Treasurer Owen.

The flag at the City Hall is at half-mast out of respect for the deceased.

LEFT TWO FAMILIES TO FIGHT FOR PROPERTY.

Colonel Thomas' Thirteen Sons and Daughters Go Into Court.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

MASCOUTAH, Ills., Sept. 3.—For more than twenty-five years Colonel John Thomas of this county was one of the leading figures of Illinois politics. When he died, December 16, 1894, he was probably the richest man in Southern Illinois. He left an estate valued at over $1,000,000, made up largely of valuable lands in this and adjoining counties.

Col. Thomas was twice married, and left thirteen children, five sons and five daughters by his first wife and one son and two daughters by his second wife, whom he married in 1875. These two families were completely estranged from each other, and their disagreement over the division of the estate has finally landed in court.

Fred Thomas of Montana represents the older children and Col. John Thomas the younger set. The case will be fought stubbornly by both sides.

BRITISH SETTLERS FIRED UPON IN GUIANA.

They Were Fishing in a Region Where Their Rights Are Protected.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A special to the Herald from Demerara, British Guiana, says:

George H. More, a grant holder of the British Guiana bank of the Amaroura river, western district, reports:

"On Wednesday myself and one Thomas Benjamin left our residence with my boat sailing to Point Barima for the purpose of fishing. In passing the Spanish station, which is at the mouth of the river, one of the Venezuelan police called us to stop, and I wanted to know why. I got no reply. On continuing my journey, Col. Castini, the officer in charge, hastened out from the General's quarters with a Winchester, and beckoned me to stop.

"I refused to do so. He aimed and fired at us, but without striking either of us, and we continued on our way."

The incident has been reported to the Colonial officers in London, and while it is not expected that much more will be heard of it, settlers in the northwest territory of the colony are anxious that the imperial authorities should obtain assurance that such demonstration shall not be continued.

The right to fish off Point Barima was enjoyed by the Dutch from their earliest settlement on the coast of Guiana, and was one to which the British succeeded.

JUMPED FROM A TRAIN TO DEATH.

Tragic Suicide of W. Russell Ward Who Eloped From Los Angeles With Mrs. Bradbury, the Young Millionaire's Wife.

Was Found Dead in His Night-robe by the Track, Having Dashed Through a Window as He Was on His Way to England to Join His Wife and Children.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—W. Russell Ward of San Francisco, a passenger on the Chicago & Northwestern overland flyer, which arrived in Chicago today and who is believed to be the man who eloped last summer with the wife of millionaire Bradbury of Los Angeles, leaped from the window of a Pullman car while the train was rushing through Iowa last night and was killed.

A telegram was received from Wheatland Iowa, almost at the same time the train pulled into Chicago which said that Ward's body, clad only in a night robe, had been discovered.

It is believed he was demented.

It is not known at what hour Ward jumped from the train as no one saw him. His absence was discovered by Conductor Roundy when the train was between Geneva and Chicago.

All of the suicide's clothing and effects were found in the berth he occupied.

The police of Chicago are mystified over the case. Yesterday afternoon the following telegram was received at the central station:

"Please send a good man to drawing room B., on 2 of the East-bound overland train arriving in Chicago at 7:30."

The telegram was sent from Fremont, Nebraska, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. It bore no signature. Detective Broderick met the train and on investigation found that drawing room B., was the room that the suicide had occupied.

The detective was informed by Conductor Roundy that the telegram the police had received had been sent by Ward, who left the train at Fremont long enough to send it.

What the man's object was, in notifying the police to have a detective meet the train is not apparent.

All of Ward's effects, consisting of several expensive satchels, and his railroad ticket, are in the hands of the Pullman Company authorities. The suicide's name and residence was learned from his ticket. His destination was Buffalo.

C. F. Goodman, conductor, and C. M. Calloway, porter of the Pullman car occupied by Ward, said that prior to his retiring last night at 10 o'clock he exhibited no signs of insanity.

The body will be held at Wheatland until the dead man's friends can be communicated with.

Another report is to the effect that Ward was brought into the train at Fremont, Nebraska, by a gentleman who was well dressed and apparently a business man of middle age.

There was nothing unusual about him and neither he or his friend attracted attention.

Ward was placed in a state room and shutting the door behind him, leaped from the train.

It is not known whether he locked the door from the outside.

Immediately after leaving the car the stranger rushed to a telegraph office and sent a message to the police of this city requesting them to take his friend in charge when the train arrived.

The police are inclined to believe that Ward was of unsound mind and that he was sent to this city by friends.

Telegrams have been forwarded by the police to Fremont requesting further evidence.

WARD WAS CERTAINLY OUT OF HIS HEAD.

Additional Details of the Tragic Death of the Gay Young Man

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—W. Russell Ward, the Englishman who created a sensation a short time ago by eloping with the wife of Millionaire John Bradbury of Los Angeles, Cal., committed suicide this morning by throwing himself from a Chicago and Northwestern train. The fact was not known until several hours later. The body of Ward was found at Wheatland, Ia.

According to Conductor Calloway, the act was committed after 3 o'clock this morning. Ward was evidently insane when he threw himself out of the car window, as he had been acting peculiarly a great part of the time.

Ward boarded the train at San Francisco at 5:30 Monday evening and was assigned to drawing room No. 2 and had tickets through to Chicago. He did not display much money, and was dressed in a new suit of black clothes. On being given possession of his apartment in the Pullman car Ward remained away from the other passengers most of the time and spent all of his time in his own apartments.

Early yesterday morning he began to show signs of insanity. He flourished two revolvers on the train several times and almost created a panic among the passengers. He told the conductor who he was and at every stop of the train he would get off and send telegrams.

One of these he sent to Los Angeles, saying that if Mrs. Bradbury wanted him she could come to him, but for the present he would have to go to England and visit his wife.

Another telegram was one he sent to Chicago. The latter he sent from Fremont, Neb., and reads as follows:

"Please send a good man to drawing B car 2 of the east-bound overland Northwestern train arriving at Chicago at 7:30 tomorrow morning."

Lieut. Collins received the message, and thinking it was in regard to some fugitive, turned it over to Lieut. Hass, and this morning the latter detailed Detective Broderick of headquarters to meet the train.

Ward's effects consisted of several expensive satchels and his railroad tickets. The satchels were examined by the Pullman officials at the Union depot and it was through the papers found in them that his identity was learned.

The Northwestern people were notified of this fact and the train dispatcher immediately proceeded to have the body looked for. Telegrams were sent along the line as far as Fremont, Neb., and orders given agents to search for the remains.

Several hours later a dispatch was received from Wheatland, Ia., that the body had been found alongside the track near that place. The body was dressed in only a night robe and was much bruised.

The remains were taken to Clinton, Iowa, where they are being held.

In Ward's satchel was found only $12 in cash, but he also had a draft for $450. He had in his clothing a hotel bill for $94.

All yesterday and last night Ward acted in a restless manner and frequently left his apartments, creating consternation among the passengers by his peculiar actions. He remained up all night and refused to retire until 3 o'clock when he approached the porter and told him he was going to sleep. Ward then went into his room. When Dekalb, Ill., was reached, the porter knocked at the door of Ward's room, but received no answer. He made several efforts to get into the room, but without success and then abandoned the idea.

When the train pulled into the Northwestern depot this morning Detective Broderick leaped on board and endeavored to gain entrance into drawing room B. The door was securely locked. The train crew managed to get in through an annex, and the detective was admitted to the room. It was found to be empty.

A suit of clothing which Ward had worn was found scattered about the room, but no trace of him could be found. It was soon decided that he had jumped through the window and all his effects were taken in charge by the Pullman company.

In the meantime the police officials of the Northwestern road proceeded to learn the man's identity.

The police believe Ward intended to take his life in his apartments. They think he telegraphed to them while having such an idea in his mind. It was his intention, they say, to kill himself on the train and have his body found when the train arrived here.

The suicide's personal effects included a big revolver in a holster and a bowie knife and one letter which was signed "Your affectionate mother." It was dated several months ago. The letter simply upbraided Ward for failing to keep her posted on his whereabouts and for his neglect in not writing her.

Cards showing his membership in the Marlborough Club, England and Wellington Club, Grosvenor Place, Cornwall, London, were also found. The following note was written with lead pencil on a blank piece of paper:

"Dear Drew: Would it be expecting too much of you to see this detective and tell him that I am willing to return to Los Angeles and undergo arrest there with him if he likes? I would rather return and face the music for what can only be a short time. Of course, if you object in the least tell me so. Yours Truly, W. Russell Ward."

A clipping from the San Francisco Examiner detailing the arrest and escape from jail at Los Angeles on August 30th of a man, whose name was Henry Bacon, was found in his pocket. Bacon was charged with holding up a street car and three gambling houses. From the tone of the note which refers to "The Detective" the telegram sent to Chicago police, it would seem possible that Ward had committed some crime at Los Angeles and that having failed to give himself up to the Los Angeles authorities, concluded to surrender to the Chicago police, but decided later to commit suicide.

Nobody on the train, not even the officials, knew that Ward was missing until Conductor Roundy took charge of the train at Geneva. In going the rounds of the train he found Ward's berth empty and the car window wide open. The man's clothing was found in the berth.

A new book entitled "Witty, Wise and Wicked Maxims," with all the passionate love passages and those pertaining to heartless women heavily underlined with pencil, was also found.

It is believed that Ward had been brooding over his separation with Mrs. Bradbury. The porter of the car, and the conductor, L. F. Godman, both say that Ward was morose and gloomy from the time he boarded the train. He kept in his state-room most of the time reading love stories.

WAS ON HIS WAY TO HIS WIFE IN ENGLAND.

Should Have Reached Chicago at an Early Hour This Morning.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—W. Russell Ward of Santa Monica, Cal., the Englishman whose sensational elopement with Mrs. John Bradbury of Los Angeles, to this city in July last, resulted in their arrest for adultery, was discharged on Thursday, August 26th, and left here for New York on Monday evening, presumably to join his wife and family in England. Under ordinary circumstances he should have reached Chicago at 7:45 o'clock this morning.

HIS MALE FRIENDS ALL SNUBBED HIM.

These Affronts He Took Greatly to Heart, as He Expected Otherwise.

Ward's career in California has been a remarkable one. He first made his appearance here about ten years ago, at which time he was in Los Angeles. He was in very poor circumstances, not being able to dress himself well. He was a well educated fellow and having made the acquaintance of some newspaper men down south, they succeeded in getting him employment in the Recorder's office.

As soon as he got a little money ahead he bloomed out as a great swell and made his way rapidly in society. After a time he surprised his friends by marrying Miss Bandini, a member of a wealthy family. He made a tour to London with her and soon after his return, he was attracted by Mrs. Bradbury's beauty.

His influence over her was as great as his over the frail young wife and when the tongue of scandal commenced to

FOUND RINGS IN THE VAT

More Evidence Which Shows That Luetgert Has Murdered His Wife.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The number of persons striving to be present at the Luetgert murder trial today was so great that guards were stationed on the stairways to turn back everybody not in some way connected with the case.

The cross-examination of Police Captain Schuettler was resumed. Attorney Vincent, for the defense, asked to have stricken from the case the captain's statement that he did not go to New York to find out whether Mrs. Luetgert had been seen there alive, but to look up the reputation of Grotty, who said he had met her on Broadway.

Attorney Vincent said the statement was prejudicial. The court refused to sustain the motion. Captain Schuettler told of his trip to New York and his investigation of Grotty's reputation. He said the State wanted to be prepared to prove Grotty a perjurer, if he appeared as a witness for the defense.

Captain Schuettler was asked about the visit of Attorney Vincent to the East Chicago avenue police station on the day of Luetgert's arrest, but the State objected. Mr. Vincent stated that he expected to prove by Luetgert that when he was arrested Inspector Schach refused to permit any person to see him until the next day.

The attorney said he was not allowed to see him and was compelled to begin a habeas corpus proceeding. Judge Tuthill refused to admit any evidence regarding the matters. "Inspector Schach is not on trial here," said the court.

Police Lieutenant Hutchinson corroborated the testimony of Schuettler as to the visit made by him and Schuettler on May 8th to Luetgert, at the latter's home to secure from him a statement regarding the disappearance of his wife. He said Luetgert stated that he hired a detective to look for his wife, although he had previously been told that he had engaged two private detectives.

Officer Dean of the Scheffield station, who found the two gold rings in the middle vat in which it is charged Mrs. Luetgert's body was dissolved in caustic potash, testified concerning the discovery.

He was followed by Mrs. Ida Harrie, who was the first of a series of witnesses who identified the rings as having been worn by Mrs. Luetgert.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 3.—A man and woman who registered at the New York Exchange Hotel as J. H. Whitney and wife were arrested this morning on a warrant from Los Gatos charging them with open and notorious adultery. The complaint was made in Los Gatos by a woman who says that the man's true name is Charles C. Lee, that she is his wife, and that he deserted her and eloped with the woman who is his companion in arrest.

The pair stopped at the El Monte Hotel at Los Gatos but left there last night hurriedly and drove here in a hack. At Los Gatos they said that San Francisco was their home. The officers here say that Lee came from the East, where he is known as a professional sprinter. His wife followed him and after a long chase succeeded in locating him. Lee denies this.

The sale occurred several days ago and Jones immediately left for Portland. He had no sooner reached there than he was placed under arrest by the Oakland officers.

END OF THE CASE

The Last Witness Examined in the McLellan Burglary Case.

SILVERIA NOT SUBPOENAED.

An Admission to That Effect by the Defendant's Counsel.

MELVIN ADDRESSES THE JURY.

Oregon Sanders Follows on the Part of His Fair Client.

This morning the court room of Judge Greene was thronged with people to listen to the cross-examination of Mrs. McLellan, who is accused of burglary.

The witness was attired in a grey dress with a black silk waist and a flat chip hat with a red and black band. Her face was not concealed by a veil, as it has been during the trial. She showed a pallid face, the result of her recent imprisonment and the excitement under which she labored.

The cross-examination was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Melvin; but Judge Greene took a hand at times for the purpose of shedding more light on the subject.

The judge drew a diagram, showing the vicinity of the burglary and including the San Leandro road, the power-house, the Dias house and the barley field through which it is alleged Mrs. McLellan crossed on her way to the Dias residence.

The greater part of the cross-examination was devoted to the passing of Silveria toward Jones street.

The witness stated originally that Silveria had crossed diagonally through the intervening space and later denied that she had made such a statement. The notes were referred to and it was shown that the defendant had testified in the manner alleged by the District Attorney.

She was then asked in what manner the missing Silveria had come through the field and indicated that he had crossed from Jones street. She was asked how she knew and replied that she supposed he must have come from that direction. Then Mr. Melvin asked whether or not she really knew in what direction Silveria had traveled and she finally admitted that she did not know. She was then excused.

Constable Robinson next was called by the State and testified that when he had seen the defendant on the Haywards car on the night of the 5th of June, she did not have, as had been testified, a sprig of wheat in her hand.

The defense sought to show that Robinson did not know anything as to the description of the woman and sought to get him to admit that he had striven to get information on the subject from a man named Thompson who was on the same car at the time mentioned.

Robinson denied the imputation, declaring that, in speaking to Thompson on the subject, he desired to know whether or not Thompson would be available in helping him to identify the accused, who, at that time, had not been arrested.

Motorman Westphaal testified that Mrs. McLellan had no wheat in her hand when she rode on his car on the night of the burglary.

On cross-examination, the witness said that his attention had been attracted to Mrs. McLellan by the dirt which was on her back as also by the basket which she carried.

T. Thompson also testified that he did not think the defendant had any wheat that night.

Mr. Melvin then offered the subpoenas issued by the defendant in the case.

The court suggested that the clerk might be sworn because the defense objected on the ground of immateriality.

The court then asked what the prosecution sought to prove by the subpoenas.

Melvin answered that he wished to prove that the defendant had made no attempt to secure the presence of Manuel Silveria, who was alleged to have accompanied the defendant on the night of the burglary.

Judge Greene then suggested that perhaps the attorneys might agree upon the facts in the case.

Attorney Sanders said that the matter of issuing subpoenas he left to his clerk, who, however, was not present. In so far as he was concerned, he said, he had not issued a subpoena for Silveria.

"And you are the defendant's attorney?" asked Judge Greene.

"I am her attorney," replied Sanders.

Juror Lindsay asked that the reporter read the notes of the conductor's evidence as to where Mrs. McLellan had sat on the car on the night of the burglary.

The notes were read and it was shown that she had occupied a seat on the outside of the car in the rear and on the south side.

The diagram on the board was then corrected by placing the power house on the north side of the track and not on the south side.

Deputy District Attorney Melvin then opened the closing arguments.

He charged the jury with their duty and charged the defendant with perjury, and asserted that she was guilty whether she entered the Dias house or not; because she was present when the burglary was committed. They should find her guilty even though their heart strings should be wrung with sympathy.

Attorney Sanders then followed, addressing the jury for the defense.

THE DEFENDANT'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. McLellan, the defendant, took the stand yesterday afternoon and told the story that on the night of the burglary she had gone to San Leandro with a man named Manuel Silveria to witness the fireworks there. Her husband, she said, did not know she was going there. In leaving San Leandro, she and her companion took an electric car for the city. Then she continued:

"Silveria said he wanted to stop at Elmhurst to get some things that belonged to a Mrs. Larsen or Lawson. We went to the Dias house. I waited near by for him, and he soon returned with two large baskets.

"Coming home, I got off at Twenty-first avenue. He asked me to take the stuff to my house and keep it over night. He was going to call for it the next day. He called, but did not carry away the baskets. I began to grow uneasy. I couldn't find Mrs. Larsen where he said she lived. Silveria had given me a lamp and a silver mirror in the package, and I took them to Mrs. Wright's. My husband began to question me, and I didn't want to tell him where I had been that night. I feared something was wrong and I wanted to get the things out of the house. That is why I packed them up and sent them to expressman Evans."

"Did you tell any contradictory stories about that trip?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Mrs. McLellan. "I didn't want my husband to know I had been to San Leandro with Silveria."

The theory of the attorney for the defense was that the burglary had been committed by the unknown Manuel Silveria, who had not been produced at the trial.

A recess was declared at noon, and, when the court reassembled in the afternoon Mr. Sanders resumed his argument.

Physicians, Newspapermen and Firemen All Preparing to Play.

The physicians and newspaper men will practice baseball together at the Piedmont grounds this afternoon. The physicians have some old time ball players to draw from, and over twenty invitations have been sent out to physicians to participate in the practice, which will commence at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Dunn has shaved his upper lip for the occasion. Others are Drs. Baldwin, Buteau, Hamlin, Kergan, Kitchings, Boyes, Eaton, Stratton, Porter, Fisher and Johnson.

The newspaper men are showing up well under their frequent practice, and some new lights have been added.

Fire Warden Fred Murdoch, on behalf of the firemen, has issued a challenge to play any team in the city. At first the firemen tried to get a game with the Police Department, but they failed. Then they challenged the county team, but as the countys have failed to respond, the firemen now desire to play any old team.

JUMPED FROM A TRAIN TO DEATH

wag, Mrs. Ward and children went to London where she is at present.

A couple of months ago came the startling announcement that Ward and Mrs. Bradbury had eloped to San Francisco. They came to the metropolis and their doings there were most notorious and led to their arrest for adultery.

After a sensational trial Ward was released. This was on Thursday last.

Since that incident which is still fresh in the public mind, Ward has been drinking heavily.

He has recently taken very much to heart the fact that many of his friends snubbed him and treated him as a moral leper. They refused to recognize him and he was socially ostracised. At the Palace Hotel bar, where he was a frequent visitor, numbers of his male acquaintances refused to speak to him. He stated to one of them, that he expected to be persona non grata to his lady friends, but that he expected his male friends would laugh with him over the whole affair. This they did not do and he was very much disheartened.

Last Monday night he was with some acquaintances and was in a jolly frame of mind. He said he was going to England to meet his wife and children and was prepared to fix up his domestic difficulties.

That was the last known of him prior to his leaving for England.

McKINLEY TALKS TO THE CHILDREN.

The President Pleased to See the Little Ones in Columbus.

Platoons of Militia Escort Him Through the Fair Grounds.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 3.—President McKinley and party arrived at 10 a. m. and are guests of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture joined them here.

With the President came Mrs. McKinley, M. A. Hanna, Secretary Alger, Colonel Herrick and other personal friends.

Upon arrival the committee on reception appointed by the Board of Agriculture, escorted the President between two lines of police carriages. The crowd was immense, the weather being fine and the attendance at the fair very large.

After luncheon the President and party took carriages for the fair, overtaking the military, which had gone ahead to "rest in the shade" as desired by the President until he came up to them, at a point near the entrance.

Marching into the large fair grounds, the procession moved through a sea of human beings, to the main building, where the President addressed school children from Columbus and from many parts of the State, who had been especially invited by card and admitted free.

The President expressed himself especially pleased to meet the children.

Later, the party was escorted to various buildings of interest, where informal receptions were given.

The President was interested in the cottage in which Grant was born. It is inclosed in a building of steel and glass, and is the property of the farmers of Ohio, being permanently located on the fair grounds.

BIANCHI'S NEMESIS.

The Fickle Barber to Lose His Very Pretty Wife.

WAS THRICE BASELY DESERTED

Bigamy Followed and Then the Shaver Went to Prison.

NO MORE IN THE WIFE'S HEART

Impoverished She Secures Assistance of the Court.

Judge Ellsworth has issued an order instructing the Sheriff and the clerk of the court to remit their fees in the case of Sarah Bianchi vs. John Bianchi for divorce which is soon to be instituted. The order was issued after the reading of affidavits of the plaintiff and Mrs. Prescott of the Humane Society. The affidavits show that the petitioner is in an impoverished condition, subsisting with her child on charity. She says that she has been deserted by her husband, who is now serving a sentence in the Nevada penitentiary.

Bianchi was formerly a gay barber of this city, his shop being on Seventh street west of Broadway depot. He had a most promiscuous fondness for women with pretty faces and the passion caused him to nearly lose his life and finally landed him in jail as a bigamist. Several years ago, his wife died, leaving two children.

After a short period, he married the sister, a very pretty woman. Bianchi distributed his affections in a miscellaneous manner and one day was surprised by his wife in the company of another woman.

There was a gun play and the fickle barber fell to the floor, bleeding profusely from a wound in the shoulder, dangerously near his head.

The injury was attended at the Receiving Hospital, the wife, whose injured feelings had impelled to the shooting having relented on a promise of reformation on the part of her erring spouse attending and consoling him while his wound was being dressed.

The couple made up again, and for a time, lived as happy as birds in a nest. But again Bianchi forgot his marital obligations. He left the city, giving a whole or at least a part interest in the shop on Seventh street to his wife.

He wandered in various climes and finally located in Carson, Nev., where he married another pretty wife.

She joined her husband in shaving customers, and a large trade resulted.

Finally, his first wife heard of his recreancy, swooped down upon him and now John is shaving criminal mugs behind the bars.

The suit will be brought by attorney Mitchell, and interesting proceedings are expected.

Burglaries Reported.

Burglars entered the home of J. H. Rourke, at Doyle street and San Pablo avenue, at 1 o'clock this morning, and stole a lot of clothing.

The entrance was effected through a lower window, which was found open when the family arose.

Mrs. C. E. Wolcott, of 315 Eleventh street reports that a purse was stolen from her on Broadway last night.

An overcoat was stolen last evening from the San Pablo avenue car house, where it had been left hanging. The coat belonged to Dan Plettner of 407 San Pablo avenue.

MORE EVIDENCE IS HEARD.

Witnesses Are Called in the Trial of Michael Collins.

The Story of the Assault Told in Court for the Third Time.

The trial of Michael Collins for the alleged murder of Philip Boogar was resumed this morning in Judge Ogden's court.

The defendant was attended by his daughter, Mrs. Boogar, widow of the deceased.

Attorneys Knight and Garrity appeared for the defendant.

The State was represented by District Attorney Snook.

There was a stipulation between counsel that the testimony of certain witnesses taken in the earlier trials, might be read to the jury.

Then the testimony of William Alcorn was read by District Attorney Snook. It showed that on the night of the killing, the witness had seen Boogar near the entrance to the Galindo Hotel. He then heard the noise as of a scuffle and then heard the report of a pistol shot. He turned and saw the flash of a second shot. He was about fifty feet away from the men who were scuffling. One of the struggling men was the defendant. He could not see whether the man who had been struggling with Collins had anything in his hand. The men separated and then Boogar advanced toward Collins and Collins walked away. Then Boogar threw up his hands and staggered back. As Collins approached, he said to witness "stand back."

The cross examination was read by Attorney Knight. It showed that when he heard the noise which preceded the shooting, it sounded like angry voices by two people and then the heavy scuffling of feet.

Witness Howland and Hemphill, who had testified before told the same story as in previous trials.

Henry A. Schlueter testified to the facts of being present when the shooting took place as they have been heretofore published.

Menin Wenceslow was the next witness. He testified that he had been near the Galindo Hotel when the affray took place.

There was a recess taken at noon till 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and then the people called A. Ingram. There was no response.

The name of W. J. Moffitt was then called, and there was no response either.

Joseph Harris was next called and testified to having seen Collins near the Galindo Hotel on the day of the shooting.

The witness was cross-examined by Jurors Leydecker and Hall.

EARTHQUAKE WEATHER.

First Rain of the Season Fell Last Evening and More Is Expected.

"Earthquake weather" is what the old settlers term this leaden sky and heavy, warm atmosphere, with its dampness. All the big earthquakes have taken place when the atmosphere has been charged with electricity and moisture as it is now. An earthquake or thunder storm may be expected to clear the atmosphere soon.

The first rain of the season fell last evening, and although only three hundredths of an inch of water fell, more may be expected before the muggy weather clears and gives way to clear, bright sunshine. Last year, the first rain fell on August 30th, when there was quite a brisk shower, although the heavy rain did not come until September 19th.

BLEW OFF THE TOP OF HIS HEAD.

A Despondent German Miner Commits Suicide at His Mine.

Put a Giant Powder Cartridge in His Mouth and Fired It.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

OROVILLE, Cal., Sept. 3.—Adam Nipshew, an aged German miner, committed suicide in a shocking manner yesterday at his claim near Yankee Hill, eighteen miles from here.

He had been despondent for some time past, but evinced no disposition to do himself an injury. Yesterday, however, he left his partner, a half-breed Indian in their cabin and went to the mine alone.

Shortly afterward the Indian heard a report and upon investigating found that Nipshew had placed a giant powder cartridge in his mouth and fired it, blowing the top of his head off.

VETOED THE ORDINANCE.

The City Cannot Pay $25,000 Toward Twelfth Street Improvement.

Mayor Thomas Sends the Document Back to the Council.

Mayor Thomas this afternoon vetoed the ordinance appropriating $25,000 for the improvement of East Twelfth street, and sent the following communication to the City Council:

"To the Honorable the City Council—Gentlemen: I herewith return to you the ordinance ordering the payment of a part of the expense of paving and improving East Twelfth street from the westerly line of First avenue to the easterly line of Eleventh avenue, and appropriating $25,000 for the payment of the same, without my approval, for the following reason:

"The ordinance provides that a portion, to-wit $25,000, of the cost and expense of said work of paving and improving shall be paid out of the City Treasury. It was undoubtedly the intention of the Council to pay from the City Treasury one-half only of the cost of said work, and was so understood by the property owners on the line of the proposed improvement. But under the ordinance as provided the city would be bound to pay the full sum of $25,000 and in addition thereto the cost of the improvement on the line of the city's property, namely the frontage between Sixth and Seventh avenues. I am satisfied that $25,000 will greatly exceed one-half of the cost of the intended improvement. Of the nine bids recently received by your honorable body for the entire work, four of them were under $41,000, the lowest being $41,672.34. All bids having been rejected for informalities, and but one bid over $50,000, it is fair to presume that the work will cost less than $45,000.

"For the reasons above stated, to say nothing of the precedent that would be established of the city paying for portions of street work, I feel compelled to veto the ordinance.

"Yours very respectfully,

"W. R. THOMAS, Mayor.

HEAVY FALL OF A TIMBER.

Hull Inspector Marcucci Is Injured at the S. P. Yards.

The Skull Fractured But No Serious Consequences Are Expected.

A very serious accident happened to Domingo Marcucci, Deputy United States Inspector of Hulls, in the yards of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, at West Oakland, shortly before noon today.

Mr. Marcucci had gone to the yards from San Francisco for the purpose of inspecting the hull of the steamer Thoroughfare, which is being overhauled on the ways.

A number of ship carpenters were employed on the upper deck. One of them had just sawed a timber in two and a piece of the wood fell to the ground.

At that instant Marcucci was passing on the ground beneath the workman, and the descending timber struck him on the head, about an inch above and behind the left ear.

A scalp wound about an inch and a half long was inflicted, the bone being laid bare.

Detective Duncomb took Marcucci to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Buteau sewed the wound. He said that the skull had sustained a slight fracture on the outer surface, and that if there were no depression on the inner side of the skull, nothing serious need be expected. If, however, there were a depression, the skull would have to be trephined.

After the operation had been performed, Marcucci was taken to his home at 2011 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco.

AFTER THE DRESSES

Mrs. Fennell's Modish Habiliments Sought by Very Anxious Creditors.

PROCEEDINGS IN INSOLVENCY.

The Latest Move to Have the Claims Settled Up at Once.

AN INDEBTEDNESS OF $3000.

The Defendant and Her Goods Still in Seclusion at the Metropole.

The latest feature in the case of Mrs. Amanda J. Fennell, who is undergoing self immurement in the Hotel Metropole in this city, is to attempt to reach the lady through involuntary insolvency.

Mrs. Marceau-Fennell is the unhappy possessor of a wardrobe as extensive almost as that of the divine Patti, who, it is rumored, has a special dress for every day in the year.

These dresses of Mrs. Fennell are not unlike those of the diva in richness and beauty, and accordingly have attracted the eagle gaze of creditors, who hope that they may be brought into court for the purpose of satisfying Mrs. Fennell's debts, which have long remained unsatisfied.

Thus far, however, the creditors have hoped in vain. They have consoled themselves with the idea that the goods have been attached, but, if so, the attachment has failed to bring the treasures of female finery from behind doors that are locked and double-locked, and which nobody seems to have the courage to either open or batter down. Hence the proceedings in involuntary insolvency, which was filed in the Superior Court this morning.

The petitioners are Jules C. Gamage, J. A. Christen, Thomas J. Hecks, Thomas Hancock and J. H. Schleef & Co.

They allege that Mrs. Fennell is a resident of Oakland, and that she is indebted to the petitioners in the following sums: Jule C. Gamage, $2,162; J. A. Christen, $9.10; Thomas J. Hecks, $119.75; Thomas Hancock, $3.20, and J. H. Schleef & Co., $128.50.

These bills represent money expended in behalf of the defendant and goods delivered to her during the past years. It is also alleged that the defendant has committed an act of insolvency by concealing herself to avoid the service of legal process and also conceals her property for the same purpose.

The case will be a very interesting one, because capitalist McDermott claims that the property of Mrs. Fennell is his under a bill of sale which he received from her some ten days ago.

In explanation of his connection with the case, Mr. McDermott said:

"About ten days ago a Fresno real estate dealer came to me to negotiate a loan for his client, Mrs. Fennell. This fellow Gamage had attached about $2,000 worth of diamonds on which Mrs. Fennell had borrowed some money, and I agreed to advance enough money to lift that attachment and settle all of the small debts that the lady owed. The amount needed was something like $2,000. She is perfectly good for everything she owes. This annoyance is simply persecution. To secure myself temporarily I took a bill of sale of Mrs. Fennell's personal effects and removed them to different rooms in the Hotel Metropole, had special locks put on the doors and I carry the keys. I don't see how anybody can attach those goods.

"Mrs. Fennell owns some of the most valuable property in Fresno, the Fiska block, the Grady Opera House, a store building and residence. The property rents now for $1,200 per month and is easily worth $150,000. As soon as the abstract is made out I shall take a trust deed to the Fresno property, subject to a $40,000 mortgage and the $25,000 interest of Mrs. Fennell's son. That will secure me for the money I have advanced, and I shall then give up my bill of sale of all the personal property. I shall have the privilege of taking up the $40,000 mortgage, which falls due in October. With good management Mrs. Fennell should soon have her business affairs in good shape. It is outrageous that she should have been persecuted as she has been."

Hilborn Starts for the Coast.

Congressman S. G. Hilborn is expected to leave the early part of next week for California. He is now at Poland Springs, Maine. He will spend a couple of weeks at the Yellowstone Park on his trip out and will stop off at Suisun before coming on to Oakland.

Mrs. Hilborn and Miss Grace Hilborn are now at Suisun spending the summer with relatives.

FRIDAY.........SEPTEMBER 3, 1897.

"Sir Harry Cooper" seems on the point of rolling over a barrel.

The Eastern letter carriers are coming to the coast by special delivery. Their train will be here in a couple of days.

The value of the metal in a standard silver dollar is now 39.62 cents. Silver will soon be "free" enough if this depreciation continues.

The yellow fever epidemic is fast dying out. The Trinity boom is already a thing of the past and the Clondyke one is travelling in the same direction.

The Stanford students intend to reserve their rushes for the Thanksgiving Day football game. They can indulge in them then without being called barbarians.

The olive branch would wave more if California ranchers realized that big profits are in the business. The demand is always greater than the supply and that means good prices.

Japan's bluff at Hawaii is evidently all over. She didn't expect that Uncle Sam would come in just to make the game interesting so she has laid down her diplomatic four flush without a murmur.

While Emperor William is chattering about his divine right, France is getting herself in such a shape that she can put in a good stiff left and let the Kaiser know that practice will beat theory every time.

The impression prevails that Alameda county's assessment will be allowed to stand. That will suit us. We are not asking for any reduction but simply to be rated on what is unquestionably a fair valuation of our property.

A California rancher named Cole is running a tobacco plantation at Westor and has succeeded in bringing the crop to such a paying basis in this State that this year he will clear up $500 an acre. This kind of Cole is certainly entitled to smoke.

In order to make the boy orator stop his prattle, a Nebraskan has resurrected a banner which was hung out to welcome Bryan back to Omaha in November last. On it is inscribed "Elect McKinley and get 25 cent wheat." O tempora! O mores!

There is no questioning, the enterprise of the neighbors on our eastern boundary. Melrose wants a slice off the same loaf Fruitvale is cutting and proposes to put her schools on a par with any in her vicinity. That's right; a progressive policy always pays a hundred cents on the dollar.

Napoleon's shade must view with infinite disgust the hand-shaking that is going on between France and Russia. The memory of the march to Moscow and of Crimea has evidently been entirely obliterated and these whilom foes are now standing shoulder to shoulder practically ready to defy all Europe.

Emeryville is doing well for a yearling. Although only just weaned she is talking of a $1,300 electric light service, expensive street work and other metropolitan improvements. That the new town is in a prosperous condition is shown by the fact that it is estimated that a forty-cent tax will be sufficient to carry out all the enterprises planned.

At last a systematic shipping system is to be established on our water front. The announcement that wheat warehouses are to be constructed on the Adams wharves so that ships can unload coal and take on grain without redocking, means a practical use of our harbor facilities that will undoubtedly be attended with large profits. Slowly but surely we are making a bid for the maritime business that could all along have been ours for the asking.

Ex-Queen Lil is evidently making one last effort to get back her lost dominion. She realizes that she has but little time to spare for if the islands are under the present control when our Congress meets again, it is reasonably certain that annexation will ensue. Diplomacy and not force of arms is her plan of campaign and it is said that she is being heavily backed by the sugar interests. If this last attempt fails it is safe to say she and her advisers will throw up the sponge.

Now that silver is going to pieces and [illegible] is not a safe issue for Democrats it looks as if they are going to adopt the initiative and referendum as a basis for their oratory. The initiative means that laws must originate with the people. Upon the request of a certain percentage of votes the state and municipal legislatures must pass any bill the petitioners ask for. Referendum means that these laws must then be submitted to the popular vote and approved before they shall be operative. By this method, every question would be referred to the people, legislatures would be simply figure-heads and the [illegible] would be in a constant stew over every question.

ADVERTISE CALIFORNIA.

The plan to advertise California in the East is a good one and Oakland should certainly furnish her proportion of the expense that will be entailed. No one nowadays question the truth of the statement that advertising pays and if this is so of an article how much more will it be of a city. Many people are on the fence as regards their location. Americans are restless anyhow and as they have none of the traditions that bind families in the old world to remain in one place all their lives, they are ever ready to make a move if they think it will bring about the slightest advantage to themselves. That many Easterners are on the verge of coming to California is certain. The State has had some good missionary work done in its behalf of late by the hosts of Christian Endeavorers who were recently our visitors and we should follow up the good opinion thus created by evidences of our enterprise.

A permanent exhibit in New York on the scale proposed could not fail to do good. It would attract the attention of the hundreds of thousands of transient population that passes through that city annually and in addition to the permanent residents we would obtain, it would divert to this direction a large percentage of the stream of tourists that constantly pour into the country. The exhibition we can make is one that can vie with that possible from any other part of the United States, for apart from our natural attractions our crops are now commanding attention throughout the world, firstly for their excellence and secondly for their variety.

The expressions of opinion set forth when the subject was discussed at the Merchants' Exchange shows that not a note of discord will be sounded to the proposition. It is hard to see anyhow where opposition could come from for the expense is trifling compared with the probabilities of the returns. The idea to make the display one of the State at large and not a sectional one should be generally endorsed for it means a unity of action instead of local competition. If we once get the people to California, there is little fear that they will not see the northern part of the State as well as the southern end of it, so we can well afford to join hands now and all pull together in behalf of a cause in which we are all so vitally interested.

It ought to be easy to float canal stock, yet the Nicaragua enterprise is languishing so hard that Japan thinks she may be able to get control of the situation. There appears to be a disposition to immediately cry down the islanders' bid but as a matter of fact, all those who are desirous of seeing the canal built, should pat the Japs on the back. As soon as they come any where near getting it, America will of course step in and rush the thing through just as we made an active move for Hawaii because Japan wanted it. There is a good deal of the dog-in-the-manger business in our foreign policy after all and it is well that there is a nation like Japan to stir us up now and then.

Now comes the news that instead of bringing down about $3,000,000 in dust the Yukon River boat Weave has only got about $200,000 aboard as a result of the season's work. It was lucky for the transportation companies that it was impossible to get news in and out of Dawson City, otherwise the large profits they have been making out of the craze would have been headed off in their incipiency.

The dose of jail Debs got doesn't seem to have done him much good. He is developing into a veritable Herr Most and now declares his willingness to take up arms against the United States Government. He will see stars and wear stripes if he goes much farther with that line of argument.

The Pacific Coast makes an excellent showing in the statistics just completed at Washington for the past fiscal year. That business is fast picking up is evident by the fact that San Francisco makes a showing of $74,025,031 as compared with $72,983,227 in 1896.

China wants to borrow $800,000,000. Li Hung Chang is said to be the richest man in the world and to be able to lay his hands on about $300,000,000 but he doesn't seem over-anxious to lend any of it to his country.

DINNA ASK ME.

Oh, dinna ask me gin I lo'e ye;
Troth, I daurna tell!
Dinna ask me gin I lo'e ye—
Ask it o' yoursel'.

Oh, dinna look sae sair at me,
For weel ye ken me true;
Oh, gin ye look sae sair at me,
I daurna look at you.

When ye gang to yon braw, braw town,
And bonnier lassies see,
Oh, dinna, Jamie, look at them,
Lest ye should mind na me.

For I could never bide the lass
That ye'd lo'e mair than me;
And oh, I'm sure my heart wad brak,
Gin ye'd prove fause to me!

—John Dunlop (1755-1820).

A SEASONABLE SALMI.

The following story is told of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe: One day she appeared at a club of which she is a member with her bonnet wrong side front. After some hesitation a member of the organization informed her of her mistake. "What a blow to my vanity!" said Mrs. Howe, with a smile. "I thought I was receiving an unusual amount of attention as I came downtown in the car, but attributed it solely to my attractions."

General Nelson A. Miles will remain in Europe long enough to see the autumn manoeuvers of the German army, and will then return to Washington, arriving in that city about September 15th.

A monument to the memory of Niels Wilhelm Glade, the famous Danish composer, has been erected on the St. Anne's Plad, Copenhagen. Glade died seven years ago. He was born in Copenhagen, and was for many years first director of the Royal Conservatory.

Edward Everett Hale said recently that he believed that the thorough training in Latin given the Boston boys from 1635 to 1775 has much to do with the city's reputation as a literary center.

Polly Brannum, the oldest woman in Tennessee, died the other night at the age of 109. She was a daughter of a revolutionary patriot, and in her day was acquainted with Sevier, Blount, Roan, Carroll, Sam Houston, Andrew Johnson, Andrew Jackson, Polk and other men of national reputation.

The record for royal travel is held by Queen Victoria. Since 1842, the year the Queen first entered a railway carriage, she has traveled something like 2,000,000 miles. This beats the Prince of Wales by about 500,000 miles, and the next greatest royal traveler, the Duke of Cambridge, by nearly 1,000,000 miles.

ARE YOU HUNGRY?

There is no need to remark that there is a right way and a wrong way to carve. Most of us have sat in our chairs and held on in agony while a disciple of the wrong way attacked the inoffensive meat and murdered it cruelly. In the first place the dish in which the meat is should be large to allow ample room for "sliding."

To carve a loin of veal or mutton begin at the small end and cut the ribs apart. A fillet of veal should be cut first from the top and in a breast of veal the breast and brisket should first be cut apart and then cut in pieces.

A sirloin of beef should be placed on the platter with the undercut underneath. Thin-cut slices should be taken from the side next the carver, then turn over the roast and carve from underneath. A portion of both should be helped.

A leg of mutton should be carved across the middle of the bone first and then from the thickest part till the gristle is reached. A few nice slices can be cut from the smaller end, but it is usually hard and stringy.

A ham can be served in several ways —by cutting long, delicate slices through the thick fat down to the bone; by running the point of the knife in a circle in the middle and cutting thin, circular slices, thus keeping the ham moist, or by beginning at the knuckle and slicing upward. The last mode is the most economical.

A tongue should be carved in very thin slices, its delicacy depending on this. The slices from the center are considered the most tempting and should be cut across and the slices taken from both sides with a portion of the fat at the root.

In carving fish practice is required in order to prevent the flakes from breaking. The choicest morsels of all large fish are near the head; the thin parts come next; the flavor nearest the bone is never equal to that on the upper part. A fish knife should be used in carving.

Fowls should be placed breast up. Put the fork into the breast to steady the bird, then cut off the wings and legs. Cut off the breast bone so as to leave the well browned skin over it and the white meat; cut off the side bones and divide what is left in two from the neck down. Remove the second joint from the leg and the wing.

CAUSTIC COMMENT.

What Fresno People Think of the Spat Between the Christian Pastors.

Commenting upon the recent spat between the two Oakland Christian Church pastors, the Fresno Republican has the following to say:

"Down in Oakland two pastors of the same denomination have had a falling out, and the attendant smash of theological crockery naturally is of interest to the people of the wicked world. The clerical combatants are Rev. Glen McWilliams and Rev. Edwards Davis, and their mutual exposure is more or less complete. Rev. McWilliams says that Rev. Davis is "not sincere;" that he "does not preach religion;" that "he is well qualified to deal with that class of Christians who wear low-necked dresses and who court sensation;" that "Davis is all right in the head; must give the devil his due—not that Mr. Davis is a devil," and a good deal more of much the same sort.

And, in response, Rev. Davis says of Rev. McWilliams: "He has posed after a picture of mine taken years ago, purchased a similar hat, collar and watchguard. He will likely sell these at a discount now." If that charge does not damn the Rev. McWilliams forevermore, will somebody mention a charge that would?

It will be remembered that these reverend combatants are shepherds and disciples of the One who said, "Judge not that ye be not judged" and "Blessed are the peacemakers." They are supposed to be inculcating the doctrine of "Peace on earth, good will to men." Yet in rancor and spleen they viey with any two old fishwives of the market. They pose as the representative of the One who went about doing good, while their angry words might have been born of Satan.

Such episodes as this do more to discredit the church than the preaching of these men can rectify in years. The gentile world has its eye on such events and it makes its own mental notes of disparagement. It is in vain to say that this is not the fruit by which the tree should be judged, for, wisely or unwisely, the world will respond, "If the good tree has no power to prevent the appearance of this bastard fruit on its branches, wherein lies its efficacy?" Say that this is poor logic? Very well; but it is the logic of the world, and it is the world with which the church has to deal.

And this unseemly and unchristian wrangle of the Oakland clergymen is by no means an isolated instance. The internal strife of the churches is a part of local history wherever you go; quarrels under the cloak of religions are a common thing. Is it any wonder that many people look askant upon the churches? Perhaps they prefer to do their quarreling out in the wicked world.

This is written in no spirit of hypercriticism. On the contrary, it is written with a firm conviction that the church should do a great work of good in the world, and with regret that it so often turns from that work to engage in unchristian warfare within its ranks. It is written with the knowledge that there is no higher code of morals than the simple one of Christianity, and with the feeling that it is deplorable that church membership so often departs from following that code. It is written, too, with the assurance that no man can so effectively drag down and belittle the church in its great work as can the man whom it delegated to be a spiritual guide and adviser. If these Oakland parsons are imbued with the spirit of genuine religion—and Rev. McWilliams may be—they cannot too keenly regret this ugly display of themselves.

Why Is It?

"Will you please tell me why you of all persons, propose to join a golf club?" asked the girl. "You don't know a thing about the game."

"No."

"And you have'nt any afternoons off in which to learn it."

"No."

"And a pink coat won't b a bit becoming to you."

"No."

"And there's no particular mental stimulus in such a club."

"None."

"And, if you don't know or care anything about the game, you will simply be bored to death by the constant babble about 'holding out' and 'reckoning up' and 'handicaps' and whether Mrs. Stroke-Smith looks more attractive in a Tam or a sombrero and—"

"I know I shall."

"Then why in the world do you want to join? You haven't—no, I can't believe it! You're not a social struggler?"

"No; but I'm a literary struggler, and, you see it's expedient for me to get in touch with the smart set. They make such good copy."

"Wouldn't it do just as well if you read Richard Harding Davis?" the girl asked, thoughtfully. "It would be so much more economical. You know you have to pay every five minutes at a golf club."

"I know; but as the Bookman says, Davis' aristocracy is so unreal. It is what the smart set would like to be, and not what it is. He writes for the very young girl and the very young man. Now, I shall address myself to the retired member who's been through it all. I shall write it up as it is."

"How very unkind," she remonstrated.

"I didn't realize they were as bad as that," said the man.

"Well, the only points of difference I can discover between the smart set and other sets are that in the smart set they all drink more and all the men smoke at table, right in the women's faces, and call each other's wives by their first names, and——"

"Oh, but you don't understand?" the man interrupted. "They have attained a point of good comradeship, where the little refinements and chivalries of life are beneath them. Whereas people in other stations cannot afford to overlook them."

The girl thought a moment. "Why do you suppose it is that they always pair off with each other's husbands and wives, instead of their own? It isn't always a matter of preference, is it?"

"Oh, no! It's merely a matter of form."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

How Prince Luigi's Party Scaled Lofty Mount St. Elias.

SCIENCE WILL BE BENEFITTED.

Unrivalled Glaciers Caught and Preserved by the Camera.

THE SUMMIT 18,100 FEET HIGH.

None of the Climbers Were Lost or Injured in the Effort.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Herald says:

"Prince Luigi, of Savoy, Duke Abruzzi, and nephew of the King of Italy, is at the Waldorf, having reached this city after accomplishing the feat, hitherto regarded as impossible, of climbing to the summit of Mount St. Elias.

"Concerning his achievement, Prince Luigi is very modest. He has avoided conversing about the character of the work he and his party had to perform before they arrived at the summit or the scientific facts he has added to the former knowledge of the mountain. When he returns to Italy, he will prepare a monologue concerning his experiences which will, it is said, be of great value to the division of the scientific world interested in the study of phenomena of great altitudes. This monologue will be accompanied by photographs of particular interest which were taken by the party at various stages of the journey. Some of these, most notably these which were obtained at elevations of more than 14,000 feet, have no equals, it is said, in the world. Not only do they show the effects of photographs at such elevations but the actual appearance of what has been regarded as an insurmountable peak. The negatives are in the personal possession of the Prince, who prizes them as the most valuable of his trophies of Mount St. Elias. They will be developed in Italy and until then Prince Luigi declines even to converse about them.

"Chevalier Cagni was the Prince's spokesman. He was enthusiastic over the expedition. When asked how his party had been received by the citizens of Seattle, he smiled as though the recollection was humorous.

"'Why,' he began, 'they received us with the utmost courtesy, but none of them believed we would succeed. So many had attempted the ascent and abandoned it, you know. We were told of all kinds of dangers which we would certainly encounter, but we went ahead and succeeded.'

"'Did you encounter many great difficulties?'

"'Frankly, no. The greatest difficulty was the question of transportation of food. It was necessary that we should take sufficient with us to assure our safety. It was essential that as climbers, we should not be overburdened. Yes every pound added to our equipment increased our danger. We were at last able to solve the difficulty and by good fortune we did not suffer from hunger.

"'What was the character of the ascent?'

"'You will be surprised to know that it was neither very dangerous nor difficult. We were all experienced mountaineers and we had all of us encountered dangers in climbing far more perilous heights than those with which we were confronted. The notable feature of the long climb was the glaciers. They seemed to be boundless. We had never witnessed such vast expanses and their splendor is unrivaled. There were many crevasses, some of them very wide, but they were soon overcome and we reached the top after eighteen hours of hard climbing. The sensation which we experienced when, at an altitude of more than 14,000 feet was chiefly rapid and difficult respiration. The rarity of the air made the last steps of the journey difficult but the weariness was more than repaid by the view which we obtained at the summit. These photographs were taken which I believe will open the eyes of the mountain climbers. Our chief regret, was that we were unable to carry a really large camera on account of its weight. The one we had, however, presented an excellent field and from its photographs we expect to obtain admirable results. The most difficult part of the trip was from the divide.' From this point, it required eleven hours to gain the top. We had lots of adventures and every one of the party, including the Prince and the guide, fell into crevasses, but we were so well prepared against accidents of that sort that no one came to harm. We came down the slope of the mountain to the 'divide' in a little more than two hours. There was some danger, perhaps, in this, for the ice bridges and snow bridges under the influence of the afternoon sun, had melted somewhat and we were not always able to trust ourselves to them, but the hazardousness of it all was forgotten in the excitement which was superb and sent the whole system tingling with exercise. We found the mountain to be, according to our instruments, 18,100 feet high. I say this, of course, with the understanding that, after more careful mathematical application, we may find that the height will vary twenty or thirty feet. While it was cold at the summit, it was not excessively so, our thermometers indicating twelve degrees below zero. In returning it would have been to our advantage had the temperature remained at that point.'"

IDAHO IN A BIG LEGAL MAZE.

The Anti-Gambling Law Has Been Declared Invalid.

A Question Is Raised as to the Legality of Her Legislatures.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, Sept 3.—A special from Boise City, Idaho, says: "District Judge George H. Stewart today decided the anti-gambling law unconstitutional. The decision is under the decision of the Supreme Court in the Fee law case which, in effect, nullifies all important laws of State. Encouraged by this decision, the district courts of the State will be flooded with attacks on various laws which are claimed to come under the ban of the Supreme Court. If the appropriation bill is attacked as seems likely, Governor Stewnberger may be forced to reconvene the legislature. If the Governor decides to call an extra session of the legislature, he will be in a quandry to know which to convene, as it is presumed all but the first session under Statehood was illegal the legislative apportionments being open to attack under the Supreme Court decision.

PRESIDENT ANDREWS IN A QUANDARY.

The Cosmopolitan and the Brown Universities Want His Services.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Dr. Benjamin Andrews is in the city for the purpose of consulting with Mr. John Brisbin Walker. The unexpected action of the Brown corporation in requesting the withdrawal of the resignation of Dr. Andrews makes it necessary that an understanding be reached between the president of Brown and the prospective president of the Cosmopolitan University.

Dr. Andrews is registered at the Murray Hill Hotel. Shortly after his arrival, John Brisbin Walker called, and was with Dr. Andrews for upwards of half an hour. The doctor declined to be interviewed by reporters. It is believed that the subject under discussion was the future policy of Dr. Andrews with reference to the acceptance of the presidency of the new Cosmopolitan University; also whether it will be wise for President Andrews to insist upon the acceptance of his resignation from Brown University.

The Wall Paper is the choice stlyes of the season's market and not bought at half price from leavings which could not be sold. HOPE IN WEYLER.

Evangelina Cisneros Would Like to Talk to the Butcher.

CONFIDENT IN HER CASE.

Could Convince the Leader That She Is Unjustly Jailed.

BERRIS' LETTERS SENT TO SPAIN

A Belief That She Will Be Liberated and Sent Away.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A special to the World from Havana says:

"The World corespondent went to see Evangelina Cossio Cisneros in her prison. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays are visiting days at the woman's jail, and the ante-room on those days is full of people from 12 to 4 o'clock p. m., who have come to condole with and bear good tidings to their relatives or friends.

When the World correspondent asked to see Miss Cossio, he was allowed to pass through the outside iron gate into a small room with a stone floor in one of the walls of which was painted in large letters "Sala de Justicia."

"Evangelina was sent for upstairs, and while waiting, the correspondent had the opportunity to notice some of the other women who were receiving visits. One was a well dressed woman who had murdered her husband. Sitting next to her was a good looking woman who had been caught selling ammunition and supplies to the insurgents. She was a political prisoner. Next to her was a woman who kept a lodging house in Havana and had rented a room to two men whom she did not know. While their baggage was being moved into the room, the police seized two of their trunks and found arms and ammunition. The men escaped but the landlady was arrested. She knew nothing of the case, but was held responsible and is now waiting for the result of the full and long investigation.

"A few minutes after the arrival of the correspondent, Evangelina came tripping down the stairs and walked gracefully across the end of the courtyard and out through the gate into the reception room. She is pretty beyond question. She is petite of figure and graceful in all her movements. Her manners are perfect and her self possession wonderful.

"She said she could not make any statement on paper because her friends had told her not to, but she talked quite freely of her hopes and fears and answered questions seemingly without reserve. She said she did not receive her meals from the outside because she was afraid of treachery and preferred to be content with the rations of the jail.

"There are about eight or ten other women in this same big room. All looked clean and respectable and all were white women. One of them was a distinguished looking lady of about 50 years of age, with handsome gray hair. Some alleged political offense is the cause of her imprisonment.

"Evangelina is the most animated of all. She is the 'star boarder' and receives more attention and has more visitors than the others. She said that the letters she received from Colonel Berris, on the Isle of Pines, and which contain evidence of his guilty intentions towards her, were all sent by her friends to Austria and from there direct to Spain to the queen regent. She says if they could be produced before a fair court, his conviction would be certain. The Colonel says that he wrote her but one letter and in that granted the permit to her father to travel as a peddler.

"She could not describe the events of the night of July 26, 1896, further than to say that she knew Colonel Berris was coming to her house that night because his secretary had told her so. She opened the door when he knocked. As to how she was seized or by whom she would not say. She escaped from the house and was caught and arrested the following morning and brought to Havana.

"She says that the best favor any one could do her would be to secure for her an interview with General Weyler. She says:

"I could convince him if he would only hear me.'

"In government circles nothing has been heard from Madrid in relation to transferring her to a convent. Opinions differ as to whether such a change would be of benefit. If her case is let alone for a while she will be released and perhaps ordered to leave the island.

A SPRIG OF ROYALTY TO VISIT LENOX.

How Prince Alexander George Will Be Entertained in the East.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Journal from Lenox, Mass., says:

"Aristocratic residents of Lenox are anticipating pleasurably the contemplated visit of Prince Alexander George, the youngest son of the Duke and Duchess of Teck.

The Duke will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrell-Hoffman at their magnificent country seat, Brockhurst. The date of the Prince's arrival is not yet fixed, but preparations are in progress befitting the reception of a royal personage.

Prince Alexander is 23 years old, a handsome manly chap, an athlete and sportsman. He is the brother-in-law of the Duke of York, the future King of England. His stay in America is limited. Probably three weeks will be passed at Lenox and some days at Philadelphia. Among the many plans for the prince's entertainment is a hunting trip beyond the Rockies.

ADAMS PREFERS CRIPPLE CREEK.

Bullets More Easily Avoided Than South American Fever.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, Sept. 3.—Geo. W. Adams of Cripple Creek arrived in this city today from the gold fields of South America. Fourteen months ago Adams left this city to try his fortune in South American mines. He went to the gold fields, 300 miles from Georgetown, in company with eight Americans, remaining there eleven months. Of the entire party of nine he alone escaped death from the fatal fever. One by one he saw his companions die of the terrible disease; saw a hole scooped in the ground and their bodies, twisted from pain, covered with earth. He was attacked twice himself with the malady, and all but died, and finally, after seeing the last of the eight die in agony, he became terror-stricken and fled from the country—a country from which he says not one out of seventy-five white men ever return alive.

ROCKEFELLER AND THE HEATHEN.

The Millionaire Pays the Last of His Big Missionary Donation.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—John D. Rockefeller, in pursuance of a promise to the American Baptist Missionary Union and the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, has sent his check for the balance of the $250,000 to be given by him on condition that the two societies should raise $238,000. On August 1st the American Baptist Missionary Union, with headquarters in Tremont Temple, this city received Rockefeller's check for $121,267. Now the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, the headquarters of which are in New York, has received a check for the amount necessary to cancel its indebtedness. This contribution is the largest gift ever made to the missionary cause.

THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS

Yale's Masterpiece Will Open at the Macdonough Theatre Tonight.

"The Twelve Temptations" will be at the Macdonough Theater tonight and tomorrow night. It will remain for the two nights only.

With scenery that is marvelous in extent, beauty and perfection, and teeming with gorgeous, many hued and dazzling costumes, while the stage is crowded to repletion with handsome and shapely young girls, this wondrous spectacle is bound to create an unparalleled sensation. There are also many trick sets of the utmost ingenuity, and hosts of comical inventions and devices sure to raise cyclones of the heartiest merriment, while the grand final transformation, "Davy Jones' Locker," is an absolute revelation.

Specialties by the Rosaires, John Harty, the Brothers Elliott, Josie Sisson and Gus Bruno Jr. and Rose Kesner will enliven and diversify the splendid entertainment, while Signoritas Ferrero and Bassaggio, Italian premieres it is said, will appear in the superb solos and variations and head a corps de ballet that, for youth, good looks, shapely forms and artistic efficiency, has not had a superior. All who appreciate grand ballets will be delighted by "The Four Seasons," "The Reigning Female Fads," "The National Trio Issues," "Shaft of Light" (improved), etc., while those who relish terpsichorean conciality and grotesqueness will revel in "Riding on Grandpa's Shoulders," "The Coming Woman and the Going Man" and "The French Nurse and Her Charge." Intense amusement will also be furnished in Chas. H. Yale's latest quaint descriptive songs "Over the Bridge," with its illustrations of the odd characters who nightly cross from New York to Brooklyn, and its animated and realistic East river setting; "All in a Row," depicting the midnight carryings-on of some hilarious couples who perform popular airs on musical champagne bottles and glasses, and "Battery Park," a vivid exposition of the tramp element in Gotham's once fashionable breathing place.

The cast includes Caroline Rudolph, Madge Torrance, Lela Hutton, Annie Courtney, Josie Sisson, Gus Bruno Jr. (the irresistible comedian), Chas. H. Henry, John Harty, Rose Kesner, Robert and Thomas Elliott and others.

TO BEGIN TRAINING.

Track Captain Brown Issues Orders to the University Athletes.

Track Captain Everett Brown of the University of California has issued the following open letter:

"We had great odds to fight against last year, but I do not believe that we will encounter so many this year. We have far better material to work upon than ever before, and if a ready response is made on behalf of the students, last year's success cannot but be repeated. Stanford is still pursuing her methods of recruiting her team with the speedy men from the far north. Her latest additions are no doubt very formidable athletes, but Stanford will again see next April that a few star athletes are bound to succumb to a healthy lot of well trained ordinary men. Therefore no student should hesitate in supporting and carrying out the methods that were pursued a year ago. Full training will commence next Monday."

Championship Tennis.

The tennis players of the Oakland High school will hold a tournament tomorrow to decide the championship of the school and to determine who will represent the school in the tournament of the Academic Athletic League.

THE EXCLUSION OF DUTCH SUGARS.

A Question Raised as to Their Liability to a Duty.

Treasury Officials Are Looking Into the Bounty of Holland.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The question of whether beet sugar exported from Holland to the United States shall be practically excluded from this country by the imposition of an additional duty equivalent to the bounty paid by the Dutch government is one which the Treasury Department will have to decide in the near future. At present, such sugars are allowed to come in on the payment of the duty fixed by the sugar schedule in the tariff bill, with the understanding that, if it is found that the additional duty applies, it shall be paid.

Section five of the Dingley Act provides that, when any country shall pay either directly or indirectly any bounty or grant upon the exportation of any article or merchandise it shall be subject, when imported into the United States to an additional duty equal to the export bounty. This is aimed especially at sugars; and the Treasury Department has called upon the State Department to secure through the consul and ministers abroad detailed information as to all export bounties paid by foreign governments.

It has been generally assumed that the new Dutch sugar law which went into effect yesterday, provided for an export bounty, but this seems to be open to considerable doubt. A draft of this law has been forwarded by the minister at The Hague. The Treasury officials have not yet examined it carefully enough to decide whether it provides in any direct way for a bounty on exportation. The draft of the law shows that premiums are allowed on beet sugars produced and withdrawn from the sugar factories, but this does not seem to be an export bounty, as it is the same on sugars withdrawn for home consumption as on those shipped abroad. It is doubtful whether this can be construed to be a bounty or grant upon the exportation of the sugar, and this may lead to a decision that no additional duties can be levied on Dutch sugar on account of the bounty. The effect of such a decision would be to give Dutch beet sugars an advantage in the American market over German, Austrian and French sugars, as those countries pay bounties on the exportation of their sugars and when they are imported into the United States they must pay additional duties equivalent to the bounties.

NO FREE DELIVERY.

The Annexation Suit Must Be Settled Before Action Is Taken.

In a San Francisco morning paper there appeared yesterday the following item:

"Postal Inspectors H. P. Thrall and N. H. Flint have been making arrangements whereby Golden Gate and Temescal, recently annexed to Oakland, will have a free postal delivery. There will be extra carriers employed and two sub-stations will be located."

In conversation with Councilman B. U. Cuvellier the same day, Postal Inspector Thrall assured him that this free delivery would be put into effect in outlying districts only when the courts shall have declared that the districts in question have been legally annexed, and not before.

This delay is rendered necessary by the suit which some people in the annexed district are about to bring to have the recent annexation election declared invalid. Had it not been for this suit, the residents of Temescal and Golden Gate might have had a free postal delivery system at an early day. As it is now, they will have to wait a long time, for law suits are slow and tedious things, and by the time the suit reaches the Supreme Court and a decision is rendered, many residents in the annexed district may have passed away.

University Students Decide to Abolish Class Rushes.

FENCING IN THE GRIDIRON.

Mourning Over the Death of Ray Simpson, a U. C. Senior.

HAPPENINGS IN ALAMEDA.

George Stinson Tells of His Experiences at Copper River.

BERKELEY, Sept. 3.—The Associated Students met this morning and formally decided to suppress all rushing in the night, between classes. The fearful injuries received in the last rush decided the students to take formal action against rushing.

Resolutions to that effect were adopted by the students. Philip Thayer, president of the Associated Students, presented the matter to the assemblage and action was quickly taken.

At the drill hour, Monday, the captains of cadet companies will collect an assessment from each man to help defray the physician's bills of the injured students.

The death in San Francisco Wednesday of R. V. Simpson, a member of the Senior Class of the University, has caused considerable regret among his fellow students. The young man's death was due to an operation for appendicitis. Yesterday the Senior Class met and appointed a committee to draft resolutions of regret, consisting of Miss C. Sanderson, Miss Lillian Parker, W. C. Russell, A. Baer and G. J. Rector, and a second committee to represent the class at the funeral, consisting of E. J. Rainey, J. A. Young, C. M. Bufford, J. W. Legget and W. E. Creed.

Simpson had made a reputation for himself as an able student and was one of the leaders in the Students' Congress.

The Oakland and San Francisco Young Men's Christian Association will hold a join field day on the University of California cinder path, next Thursday afternoon. Cheek, Dawson and Jackson of Berkeley will enter.

Football Manager Everett Brown has been granted permission to fence in the football field by Lieutenant Cloman. Lieutenant Winn refused to allow the field to be surrounded by a fence, and used it as a parade ground.

The first issue of the term of the University Magazine appeared today. It is adorned with a new cover, designed by Sidney Ormer of the Mark Hopkins Institute, and is considerably larger than any number issued hitherto. The new board of editors and directors is as follows: Counselors, Professor William Carey Jones and Professor Thomas R. Bacon; ex-officio alumni editors, Hon. William R. Davis and James Sutton; student editors, H. A. Overstreet '98 (chief editor); Miss Marion Whipple '98, Miss Mary Bell '98, Charles E. Fryer, '99, Harold Symmes '99; business manager, Will C. Russell.

Professor Jaffa is at Pacific Grove, where he is conducting a farmers' institute.

ALAMEDA NEWS.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 3.—An interesting account of the Copper River country is given by George Stinson, a miner, who just returned from that country. A year ago he started from Cook's Inlet up the Matamooskie River and crossed over the divide, finding a very large lake, over one hundred miles long which is not recorded on any map. Stinson went around this body of water until he came to a river which he followed down into Copper River. This trip took several months to make and was full of hardships.

Several claims were located by Stinson at the head of the river, where there are rich veins of gold and copper. The course down the Copper River entails innumerable hardships. There are several glaciers, and for four miles, the river runs under one of them. The miner stated that he had built and abandoned seven rafts on his way down. The voyage of three hundred miles took nearly six months. The river is swift and narrow. The Copper River Indians, Mr. Stinson describes as a fine race of men. They are tall, live out doors all the year around and wear little clothing. They are strong and athletic. They are usually friendly and will not pick a quarrel without a strong provocation. One of the lost arts is their's, Mr. Stinson says, namely the art of hardening copper and welding it to iron. They present the strictest secrecy in regard to the process.

Mr. Stinson will return north Monday. He expects, with the aid of former experience and the help of Indians to gain his claim on the Copper River about March.

Deputy Poundmaster John Josephs was yesterday convicted on a charge of using vulgar language, preferred by Mrs. Lyons at 2010 Pacific Avenue. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or spend fifty days in jail. During the noon recess, Josephs met Thomas Goff, also a deputy poundmaster, who had testified against him at the trial, and at once attacked him. Goff's jaw was broken, and several minor injuries were also inflicted by the irate Josephs. He was at once arrested on a charge of battery. The former offense occurred while Josephs was engaged in catching a dog.

The Ladies' Missionary Aid Society has been organized at the German Evangelical Lutheran Christ Church, with twenty-two charter members. The following officers have been elected: President, Mrs. H. Wichman; vice president, Mrs. Charles Linderman; secretary, Mrs. Theodore Victors; treasurer, Mrs. A. Kuchmeister; organist, Mrs. W. Brandes. The formal installation will be held Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Oehler and Mrs. Greenwald of Sacramento, Mrs. J. Everding and Mrs. G. G. Burnett of San Francisco made addresses at the first meeting.

A dinner will be given at the Unitarian fete today. This evening is Mexican night. The programme last evening was as follows: Overture, Wilhelm's Band; readings by Paul Davis, "Jealous Wife," "Deacon's Story," "McCarty's Funeral;" vocal solo, Mrs. Allardyce; readings by Paul Davis, "Thar Was Jim," "Katherina's Visit," "The Bells;" piano solo, Mrs. Allardyce; readings by Paul Davis, "Yarn of the Navy," "The Ghost," "O'Hoolihan's Nomination Speech."

Good authority is claimed for the statement that Congressman Hilborn before leaving Washington, gave the name of Theodore W. Leydecker of Alameda to the President for the office of Postmaster. Among the candidates for the position, who think they have a fair prospect of success are J. W. Jackson, M. S. Taylor, T. W. Leydecker, George Bew, C. M. Culver and C. W. Petry.

A number of young people of this city are endeavoring to arrange a tennis club. A meeting will be held Saturday evening at the First Presbyterian Church to effect organization. Among the leaders are J. E. Baker, Dr. W. R. Hughes, Mr. Otis, Miss Alice Baker, W. Barber and Frank and Percy Bordwell.

The daughter of Mrs. Margaret Garcia and the late Jose Garcia, Miss Louise Garcia, died Wednesday evening at the home, 1113 Park avenue. Miss Garcia was born in San Francisco. She was twenty-two years of age. The funeral will be held tomorrow from St. Joseph's Church. The remains will be entered in Holy Cross Cemetery, San Mateo.

A number of Alamedans, among them City Clerk Lamborn and J. R. Sloan, secretary of the North Side Improvement Club, attended the meeting of the Board of Trade of San Leandro Wednesday evening. The object of the meeting was to discuss the tidal canal matter in order that a combined plan of action between the two towns might be decided upon which would hasten its completion. Colonel Hastings, City Clerk Lamborn and J. R. Sloan spoke in favor of the project. Colonel Lyman Bridges wanted San Leandro to have a canal of its own. It was thought by the others that the Government would not be likely to favor that proposition. After much discussion, a committee of five were appointed, which will confer with a similar committee from Alameda.

The yachts Fawn and Sea Fox will represent the Encinal Yacht Club in the race for the Macdonough medal on Admission Day. A. M. Clay will command the Sea Fox, and Frank O'Connor the Fawn.

Last night was one of the most successful at the Sacred Heart Fair so far. The Catholic Knights of America were the hosts of the evening and attended in large numbers. At the refreshment booth, the matron, Mrs. McDonald, and her assistants were kept busy.

From a financial standpoint the evening was a remarkable success.

Tonight the members of Company N, League of the Cross Cadets will have charge of the programme. An exhibition drill will be one of the most interesting features, supplemented by selections by Mr. Foster, the pianist; vocal solo by Frank Jacobs, and Mr. King and others.

A Benefactor Dead.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—J. Q. Adams Fritchey, a wealthy retired attorney of St. Louis, formerly of Harrisburg, is dead of spinal disease at Atlantic City. He was 67 years old. He presented to the University of Michigan one of its finest collections of geological specimens. Several years ago he purchased a tract of land in California with the object of determining whether the tropical plants would thrive in that region.

LITERARY NOTES.

There may exist those who sanction the conduct of Brown University in expelling Professor Andrews, but it is very evident that the editor of the Arena and the author of "The Bond and the Dollar" and "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" does not. "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" appeared in the July number of the Arena, in answer to Henry Clews, the well known Wall street banker and millionaire. It was a true and startling expose of the workings of the most colossal conspiracy of our time, and well deserves the popularity that it has gained. It is our belief that "The True Inwardness of Wall Street" will figure as prominently in the next political campaign as "The Bond and the Dollar" did in the last.

Leslie's Weekly has a double page panoramic view of the beach at Atlantic City at bathing hour, during the recent visit of the League of American Wheelmen, which is one of the largest and finest pictures ever made with a camera. A photomosaic of "The Rally Round the Ice Wagon" on a hot day, in the down town tenement district of New York, is on the front page of Leslie's, which also contains Reuterdahl's sketches of the manoeuvers of the Illinois Naval Militia at Chicago; "Midway Coney Island," with its breezy Bowery and other living pictures; the architectural splendors of the Tennessee State Centennial Exposition at Nashville; "An Aerial Navigation Problem," with an illustrated account of the latest experiments in sky cycling, by Carl E. Myers, the well known aeronautical engineer, and a page of illustrated news from abroad. John Bonner writes picturesquely of "The Land of the Oregon Pine" and the marvelous resources and development of the State of Washington. Haryot Holt Cahoon discusses "The New Congressman's Wife." The fiction of this week is "Princes Have Done as Much," by Robert C. V. Meyers.

Old Dover, New Hampshire, is the oldest town in New Hampshire, settled in 1623. It had a trying history in the Indian period, and came to its growth through great tribulation. It played a good part in the time of the Revolution, when Jeremy Belknap was the minister of the old First Parish, and in the anti-slavery time, when it was the home of John P. Hale, and today it is a bright and busy manufacturing town. Its interesting story is told by Miss Caroline Harwood Garland, the librarian of its public library, in the September number of the New England Magazine, and all the lovers of the old town have reason to be grateful to her, for their town has certainly never been so well presented to the general public. The artist has admirably supplemented Miss Garland's pen, a great mass of well chosen and well executed pictures adding to the interest of her pages.

The following letter from President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University to the publishers of the Riverside Literature Series, in its reference to the relative progress of Eastern and Western schools in the use of literary masterpieces, illustrates well that trend of mind which makes him a leader. Not he, but the thing he observes, is responsible for his opinion.

"I think that you have done a great service to the common schools of the United States by issuing in cheap form unabridged masterpieces of the best English and American authors, to be used in place of the ordinary 'readers.' For some reason or other, Western schools seem to have been more ready than Eastern schools to adopt this great improvement."

It will be difficult to find any better advice in regard to studying a masterpiece of literature than that given by Superintendent William H. Maxwell of Brooklyn, N. Y., in what he has said about the study of Longfellow's "Evangeline." He advises that the poem be read at least three times. First, for the sake of becoming acquainted with the narrative; second, to obtain clearer conceptions of the characters, etc., and for the purpose of dividing the poem into parts for closer study; and third, for a careful analysis of the poem and a study of the words contained in it.

Kirk Munroe, teller of healthy stories for healthy boys, has a new book now ready by the Lothrop Publishing Company. It is "The Ready Rangers," and is a story of sport, adventure and self-help.

The Locus for August-September combined is on hand with a striking cover and with a table of contents that is quite fetching, in that it bespeaks a delving into the unique at every turn. Prominent among its features is a folio of prison verse signed No. 3882. If the editor can prevent the escape of this prisoner, he has a literary gold mine. Carmen Harcourt Austin wafts us a breath from Mexico with a Chinese story of self abnegation, "Ah Yet's Penance." A love story in brief, "The Faith of the Faithful," is by Charles Fletcher Scott. Myrtle Reed disposes of the question of life in a short poem, "The Loom of Life." A bit of desire for Oriental languor is instilled with her verse, "Metempsychosis," by Grace Hibbard. Henry R. Remsen appears with some delicate verse, "The Anemone." "The Leper," a sketch in the desert, by Leonard H. Robbins, is a powerful pen picture of anguish that occupies a page. "The Confession of a Dead Man," a fantasy of a self murdered soul, treating of the irony of love returned, is by Egbert W. Fowler. "Monotony," a poem by Stuart Acheson, tends to lull one into contentment even with a glare of sun in one's eyes. Other poems are by J. Lovering and Gail Leigh. "The Sons of Abranyl," a romantic story of the medieval world, picturing the old religion in its kindest and most human guise, is by Martin Birnbaum. "A Book of Fantasies," by Walter Blackburn Harte, in his inimitable style, is a glittering review of Miss Dawson's "An Itinerant House and Other Stories." "An Incident," by Plato G. Emery, is a very realistic street car sketch. About as clever a paraphrase of "Love's Woes" as has ever happened is spread in three columns of verse across the center pages; it is by Gotthold J. Ollendorff. "Bubble and Squeak," in its usually delightful vein, fills out the number.

The Lotus' characteristic marginal illustrations, clever head-and-tail pieces and other drawings are from the pen of Ryan Walker, who is better known, but not better represented by his political caricatures which have won him distinction throughout the country. The name of a new editor, Frank A. Gailey, appears, although the hand of W. B. Harte, the distinguished essayist, who has heretofore presided, is still seen throughout the number.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for September 6, 1897, are: "Don Diego's Treasure, the Experience of an American Typewriter Girl in Mexico," by Gilbert Cunningham; "The Coming of the Gold Seekers," a long review of the new volume of Theodore H. Hittell's "History of California," and a gossipy letter from New York.

Notable features of Outing for September include a most timely description by Edward Spurr of the trip from the coast to the Klondyke. This trip is via the Chilcoot Pass, and it gives detailed information which will be eagerly read. The article is profusely illustrated from photos taken upon the spot. In a "Vancouver Salmon," Ed W. Sandys well describes the other end of British Columbia. Capt. Kenealy writes of "Regatta Week at Larchmont"; Malcolm W. Ford of "Specialization in Athletics," and Paul E. Jenks takes the reader "Thro' Sunny France Awheel." The fiction is "A Romance Among the Rice Birds," by E. E. Peake. Excellent short tales of sport and adventure lend the needful variety to an excellent number.

The newspapers are the mines from which a knowledge of actual economic and social life is to be obtained. But their day to day treatment of events is necessarily desultory, and the ore must be sifted and refined to make it of permanent value to the student and investigator. In the departments of notes upon municipal government and sociological topics, "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science" has undertaken this task for its readers. Professor E. R. Johnson has done a like service in another field, in a series of notes on "Current Transportation Topics" in the September issue of this journal. In non-technical language he has ably summarized recent decisions of the Supreme Court which are of fundamental importance to the railroad interests of the nation.

The September number of "How to Grow Flowers" is an unusually interesting and valuable one. It is devoted largely to the culture and care of winter blooming flowers. "Bulb growing in Holland" is an article of great value. It is written by an extensive grower of Dutch bulbs, R. A. Beerhorst, and gives a great deal of interesting information. Ellen E. Roxford writes of "Fall Work in the Garden" and a number of other leading floral writers discuss seasonable topics.

A new book by Mary E. Wilkins is an event. This year she issues through the Lothrop Publishing Company a volume of verse for children, with the delightfully attractive title of "Once Upon a Time."

The tramp is the bugbear of rural communities, and when he is imported into cities he becomes a "problem." It is this problem which Dr. E. T. Devine discusses without affectation and with a pleasing directness in his article on "The Shiftless and Floating City Population" in the September issue of "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science." He introduces us to the life of these dregs of society in the lodging house and the stale beer dives of New York. He describes measures which have been taken with some success to limit this class and to save society from their increase, and indulges the hope that the presence of such a class may not be permanent. Besides the usual departments and an interesting summary by Professor E. R. Johnson of recent judicial decisions affecting railroads, the issue contains important articles on the "Problems of Political Science" by Professor L. S. Rowe, "The Philosophic Basis of Economics" by Professor Sidney Sherwood and "Administrative Centralization and Decentralization in England" by Dr. J. T. Young.

Miss M. L. Warren of Detroit, Mich., has prepared a book that should prove very popular with primary teachers. It is entitled "From September to June With Nature," and is adapted to the needs of first and second year pupils. A series of charming sketches in nature studies, beautifully illustrated and adapted to the varying seasons, makes a book such as every school ought to use. The publishers are D. C. Heath & Co. of Boston, who announce that the book will be issued September 15th.

It was discovered a few years ago that the entire contents of a series of regular readers, such as used to supply all the reading matter given to a boy during his eight years in the primary and grammar schools, could be read through in one week by a diligent boy of average intelligence. Realizing the small amount of material supplied by the readers, teachers are now using a large amount of supplementary matter in all grades of school work. So great is the supply of such material that it becomes important for the teacher to make a careful choice of what he will use. Literature of power, as it is sometimes called, has very properly received the preference. Such literature may be defined to be that which has the power to stir the human soul, to arouse men to action, to give them a love for country, for home, for church, for honest labor, etc. It is not hard to find plenty of illustrations of literature of this sort. It is known that during our civil war the patriotic writings of Longfellow, Holmes, Whittier and Emerson, recited as they were in school and at home, sent many thousands of men to the front. These writers were the best recruiting officers our country had. To illustrate the many sidedness of a great poet and the amount of good that may be derived from studying him, reference may be made to a little book published a few years ago as No. 12 of the Riverside Literature Series, entitled "Studies in Longfellow," by W. C. Gannett. This book is now being revised to date. In it will be found lists of poems relating to the Universal Church, to brotherhood, to the immortal life, to heroes and saints, to character, to the presence of God in nature, to history, the home, etc. Doubtless similar lists could be made, though not so full perhaps, of the writings of other American authors. These lists show how much may be obtained from the study of Longfellow, of history, of ethics, of patriotism, and in fact of almost all those things which help to prepare children for life.

DIED FOR LOVE.

Mysterious Chicago Suicide Was Vincent Park's Mistress.

SHE WAS FROM LOS ANGELES.

Park Was Well Known Here as Assistant of Spiritualist Forsyth.

A MAN OF MANY ALIASES.

Took the Girl Away From Her Home Only to Desert Her.

A light has been thrown on the mysterious suicide of a young girl in the Victoria Hotel, Chicago, Tuesday. It is now believed that the young woman was the mistress of a man named Vincent Park, who was well known in this city as the manager of a so-called spiritualist, Forsyth by name.

The dispatches announcing the suicide of the girl briefly stated that she registered under the name of Blanche Nelson, New York and afterwards told the hotel boy that she came from California.

She was seen at the Leland Hotel, Chicago, earlier in the day and inquired if a man named Forsyth was stopping there.

The girl was very pretty and was elegantly gowned. She wore a wedding ring engraved with the initials "A. M. E." Three collars owned by her were marked "L. H. G." "A. D A." and L. M." There was no other clue to indicate who or what she was

Mrs. Forsyth who lives in this city, feels confident that the young woman was Park's mistress. Park is now in Chicago and it is supposed that the young woman followed him East and committed suicide when she found that she could no longer hold his fickle affections.

The theory is supported on the frailest facts. Mrs. Forsyth left her husband about six months ago owing to his ill treatment of her. Forsyth posed sometimes as a spiritualist and sometimes as an exposer of spiritualism. In all these dealings, Park acted as his confidential manager.

Forsyth lived in Alameda formerly and eloped with an Oakland girl. After she left him, he managed to gain possession of their little eighteen months old baby boy and took him away. The child has never been found by the mother since nor will the father disclose his whereabouts.

Forsyth and Park often spoke of a woman named "Lil" in Mrs. Forsyth's presence. She had come from Los Angeles to San Francisco with Park and later went north with the two men. The men never called her anything but "Lil" and the description of the young woman tallies with that of the Chicago suicide. She had dark hair and eyes, was rather short and plump, and always dressed well.

Forsyth is now supposed to be in Tacoma, but it is known that Park is in Chicago and it is believed that he is going by the name of Forsyth as the two men frequently interchanged names.

Forsyth had several aliases, among them were Dr. De Forrest, Adrian Chester, Arthur La Count and Clarence E. Chester.

Park was a handsome man and a good talker. He was about six feet tall and had dark eyes and hair.

"Lil" was very much infatuated with him and had given him several articles of value. It is supposed that she followed him to Chicago and later quarrelled with him which drove her to take the fatal step.

The real identity of "Lil" remains concealed as no one save Park and Forsyth know much of her history.

A Letter From an Alameda Boy Tells of Their Trials at Chilcoot.

Harold Ward of Alameda has sent a letter from Skaguay to his father that contains much interesting information. He says in part:

"Arrived at Skaguay at 10 o'clock Friday night. As we cannot get our freight for three or four days, I suggested that Arthur Witcher and I go up Chilcoot Pass and Dr. Smith and Chris try White's and find out for ourselves which route is the most practicable, as all reports are not only erratic, but confusing. In accordance with my suggestion, we started at 7 A. M. Saturday. We took along blankets, hard tack and a can of beef tea. Being green, we traveled fast. Arthur began to murmur about his feet, and while mine were dry, they were sore all right. We got to the foot of the hill at 3 o'clock and decided to push on to Sheep's Camp before dark, but we had to stop at the two mile limit and rest for an hour. We then passed up one and a-half miles of the very worse climbing I ever dreamed of, the steep grade not being so awful as the poor footing. One moment on a rock, the next in mire and slush, more slush and then more rock. I tell you, it is a horrible proposition. While the trail is something awful, a man can get over it, and unless others report very unfavorably we shall surely take this pass. Chris reports the White trail in a few words. Thirty-five hundred people strung along ten miles to the summit, one-half of whom are selling out and returning. Some are returning to go over Chilcoot, others are going to camp at Dyea till spring, and some are sitting on their thumbs weeping, and all in all the most miserable, disconsolate lot of men the sun ever shone upon.

"I know now why men new to this kind of thing are called 'tenderfeet.' 'Tender' distinctly applies to 90 per cent of all the feet on the trail. But we are going that pass if we have to go on hands and knees.

"Two men came in today for provisions and incidentally to deposit $40,000. It has helped some of the faint hearted just seeing it, and really it is a wonderful thing to see. It did our gang no harm.

"I feel sure we can get to Lake Linderman and camp there until it is frozen enough to sled, so if we get there and postal communication is not better than now, you may not hear again from us until April or May. But should such be the case, do not let a little thing like that worry you. We can worry enough for all our relations about now, if we want to. We do not suffer from cold and heat like we do at home. It sounds funny, but when it is not raining the air is very dry."

Savage people have a superstition that an evil eye may be cast upon a person to bring all sorts of trouble and misfortune. That seems like a pretty foolish notion; but it isn't much worse than some of the notions which civilized people indulge in. One worn out superstition is the belief that if a man inherits weak lungs from his parents he is pretty sure to die of consumption. The actual fact is that if such a man will only take proper care of himself he will really be safer from consumption than a careless person who has no inherited weakness. Carelessness is the real evil eye. Carelessness will develop a tendency to consumption in any body.

The lungs are composed of very delicate, sensitive tissue, even in the healthiest person; that is why they yield so quickly to the attack of tainted blood. If the blood is allowed to get impure and impoverished, and bile-poisoned, the seeds of consumption will spring up in the best kind of a constitution. The real consumption-taint is in the blood.

Hundreds of cases of so-called "hereditary" consumption have been completely and permanently rooted out of the system by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, simply because it gives the blood-making glands power to pour a fresh abundant supply of rich, red, healthy, blood into the circulation. This drives out all poisonous and unhealthy germs. It stops the waste of tissue and the formation of morbid deposits; builds up fresh, normal, healthy lung tissue and solid, muscular strength.

In all the weakened debilitated conditions which are the forerunners of consumption, Dr. Pierce's Discovery is the most perfect nutritive and strength-builder. It is assimilated by the weakest stomachs.

A GARDEN FETE BY MOONLIGHT.

St. Paul's Work Chapter Plans an Elaborate Evening Entertainment.

The Beautiful Baker Home Will Be Thrown Open for Charity.

The Parish Work Chapter of St. Paul's Episcopal Church held a meeting this morning at the home of Mrs. George W. Baker and completed the plans for a garden fete to be given the evening of September 11th at Mrs. Baker's beautiful home on Madison street.

The fete will be on a night when the moon is full-orbed, but the ladies are not counting on the witching and uncertain light of the moon, but are going to make the gardens brilliant with parti-colored Japanese lanterns and glowing electric lights.

This fete will really open the social season and will be as brilliant an event as the formal opening of society's festivities should be.

Mrs. George Baker has generously offered her home with its beautiful surroundings and the tennis court adjoining will also be monopolized for the fete. There will be music on the lawn, dancing in the house and a picture gallery upstairs. There will be nothing lacking to give every one a chance to enjoy the evening as fancy and taste dictates.

The tennis court will be devoted to a promenade concert with the California Mandolin and Guitar Club hidden behind screens of flowers discoursing sweet music.

Attractive little tables will line the outer edge of the court yard. Lit by quaint lamps and lanterns the scene will recall the fairy-like pictures of the Paris boulevards in merry making times.

A score or more of well known society girls will have charge of the tables. Among them are Florence and Blanche Sharon, Chrissie Taft, Laura and Mona Crellin, Irene Baker, Bessie Palmer, Gretchen Burnett, Pauline and Ione Fore, Augusta Kent, Elsie McElrath, Mary Whitney, Louise Simmons, Misses Leigh, Redfield, Maddern, Tobey, Gaskill Colt, Brown and Harris.

Mrs. W. E. Sharon Mrs. C. M. Converse and Mrs J. E. McElrath will have the general supervision of the tables, while Mrs. James Allen will look after the musical programme.

Early in the evening there will be an excellent concert in the house.

Mme. Belloni Zifferer will be one of the soloists. The Reliance Club Quartette will give several selections, and Alex Rosborough will make speeches a la Sol Smith Russel. Later Huber's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

In the art room upstairs, there will be pen and ink treasures from many of the local studios. They will all be for sale for charity.

In one corner of the court room spielers will call forth extra attractions. A well known society girl of San Francisco will read the past and unfold the future to all who may apply. She has the gift of peering into the future and seeing more than others can.

Ed Hume and his graphophone and Edwin R. Jackson and his silhouettes will also be attractions. A club man who prefers to keep his name mysteriously in the background, has promised to do some sleight-of-hand tricks that will outrival those of the lamented Hermann.

Mrs. Mark Requa and Mrs. Andrew Mosely will have charge of the lemonade booth and will be assisted by Misses Florinne Brown, Myra Prather, Ida Belle Palmer, Violet Whitney, Belle Mhoon, Jessie Glascock Amy McKee and others.

The twenty ladies who are arranging the affair and will act as a reception committee are Mrs. L. L. Bromwell, Mrs. H. C. Taft, Mrs. Andrew Mosely, Mrs. E. F. Heron, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Victor Metcalf, Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. J. E. McElrath, Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. C. M. Converse, Mrs. Sam Brock, Mrs. Chas. Allen, Mrs. Frank L. Brown, Mrs. John T. Wright, Mrs. Jas. Allen, Mrs. Frank Adams, Mrs. Sumner Bughee, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Allen Babcock, and Mrs. John Currier.

AND KATIE WEPT.

The Erring Girl Cries After Listening to Kind Words.

Kate Goodwin appeared in the Police court this morning with a ticket for Vallejo, where her mother lives, and promised to leave for that place this afternoon. Judge Allen therefore suspended judgment.

License Inspector Maloon, who knew the girl before she was married, tried to induce her to leave for Vallejo this morning, fearing that she would meet some of her wild companions and fail to fulfill the promise made to the court. Kate, however, refused to go till the afternoon train, although the kind words of Maloon drew tears from the erring woman.

"You are the first one who has spoken to me for many months," said the weeping woman to Maloon, "who has seemed to have my welfare at heart. You will never know how much good your kind words have done me."

The girl is the divorced wife of William Goodwin and as Kate Baldwin, was a well known society girl of Oakland and Vallejo. For several years she has been on a downward road, which resulted the other day in her being arrested as a common vagrant.

For Social Reforms.

A movement is on foot to establish a Union Reform League in San Francisco for the propagation of Christian Socialism. The movement is headed by the Rev. P. D. Bliss, the well known Episcopal clergyman, and among those interested are Dr. Wm. Rader and Messrs. Whittaker, Dennison and Jas. Andrews of this city.

THE BEET SEASON HAS NOW OPENED.

Sixty Tons Are Being Delivered at the Refinery Each Day.

Pleasanton Can Grow Enough of the Tubars for Two Factories.

The Alvarado sugar refinery commenced to receive beets this week, and about sixty tons per day are being delivered.

"We will be shipping 100 tons daily before the end of the week," said R. C. Peach, who represents the Alameda Sugar Company, "and by the time the season is fairly going the average will be about 200 tons a day. As far as we are able to ascertain, the crop is first class and the yield will be big. It was feared that the hot spell a little while ago would damage the beets somewhat, but there is no evidence yet of any injury."

The shipping of so many beets from the neighborhood of Pleasanton has caused the people of that section to congratulate themselves.

Manager Atkinson of the refinery was spoken to about this recently.

"The idea is all right," he said, "but you can't raise beets enough here to keep a factory running. The quality of the product of this valley cannot be beaten, but it takes at least 10,000 acres of beets to supply a factory, and you have not got that much country here."

Tony Schweer and other gentlemen interested in the matter took Mr. Atkinson in hand and drove him around the valley. After the ride his ideas were much changed.

"This valley is bigger than I thought it was," he said. "There is room here for 20,000 acres of beets without drawing from the San Ramon country. I am convinced now that a factory here would be a profitable investment."

RUSHING THINGS AT THE HOP PLANTATIONS.

The Picking Will Be All Completed in Less Than Two Weeks.

An expert visited the hop yards in Pleasanton Monday, and the result of his his investigation was an order to rush work all along the line. It was his opinion that the crop is ripening so rapidly that unless it is picked within a very short time much of it will be a total loss.

The work has been going on very satisfactorily, the average picking being about seventy-five tons daily. The total yield is estimated to be in the neighborhood of 1,500 tons. Most of this has been contracted for by English hop buyers, and the shipping to them will commence in a few days. At the rate the work has been going on the crop will be harvested within the next ten days.

The record for a single day's work was broken Tuesday by a picker in section A, who weighed in 300 pounds. The best previous record was made by George Davis, who managed to pick 268 pounds in a day.

Miss Rockoff Will Lecture.

Miss Bertha Monroe Rickoff will give a critical and analytical reading tonight at the First Unitarian Church of "Quo Vadis." The discussion will be participated in by Dr. Charles W. Wendte and Colonel John P. Irish. The meeting is held under the auspices of the Starr King Fraternity and is the first of a series of meetings.

WHALL SHALL THE PLACE BE CALLED?

Supervisor Wells' Locality Causes a Lively Local Argument.

It Is Referred to as Dublin but Is Known Legally as Dougherty.

Over Dougherty station way, where Supervisor Wells lives, the people are trying to get their settlement designated on the maps by its correct name. All over the country it is known as Dublin. The guide posts along the county roads point to "Dublin," while as a matter of fact there is no such place and never was.

The Supervisors will be appealed to, first, to change the signs on the guide posts; then the crusade to have a spade called a spade will be begun in earnest, and the person who is caught over there calling Dougherty Dublin will be strung up to the nearest electric light mast, says the Pleasanton Times.

C. M. Dougherty, Mayor of the town, is one of the chief agitators in the movement to have it treated with proper respect, and he thinks if the Supervisors will only change those sign boards the aim of the agitators will be accomplished.

"This place never was Dublin," said Mr. Dougherty, "although it is known by that name all over the county. Quite a number of years ago, the then Postmaster General Wilder came out here on a hunting trip. I entertained him and showed him around the country. During his stay he named this place Dougherty, and it has since appeared in the postal guides and is known by the postal authorities by that name. That was the first and only christening.

"A long time previous to this a man named Colonel Freese, who was quite a character in this section, got in a fight with a young fellow near the cross-roads. He was getting the best of the scrap, when three or four others took a hand and the Colonel was unmercifully beaten.

"When he recovered himself he inquired where he was at.

"'Dougherty,' some one informed him.

"'They ought to call this double-in,' he replied, and that remark of his has stuck to the place ever since."

MANY VIEWS OF LEADING OAKLANDERS.

Tell of How to Increase Population on This Side of the Bay.

"The Ten Million Club" is the name of a publication that is aiming to increase, by legitimate means, the population of this State. The means employed to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

In the current number Greater Oakland has a prominent place. Among those who have stated how the population of this city can be increased to 150,000 are Judge Gibson, M. J. Keiler, W. R. Davis, W. W. Witcher, John A. Britton, E. A. Heron, F. Adams, Craigie Sharp.

All of these men have something practical to say.

John A. Britton sums them all up in the following remark: "Encouragement of immigration which will accomplish this should be the first of the concerted efforts; and to do that shou'd be employed by the dominating intelligence spoken of first means that are common to any legitimate industry for the advancement of its lines of profit. Second—Legislation that will protect the investor in either business ventures or in the building of a home is necessary. Third—Legislation also that will devote the money received from taxable property to an economical administration, and one in which the public have confidence, to the extent of knowing that moneys collected are not diverted from the channels into which the tax paying public has a right to expect and demand it would be applied."

EXTRA FERRY BOAT FOR FREIGHT ALONE.

Will Be Run During the Busiest Hours of Each Day.

The ferry system will soon be increased by the addition of another boat, but it will not be for passenger travel. It will be exclusively for freight service and will be run during the busiest hours of the day only.

Some weeks ago there was more freight for one of the boats running between five and six o'clock than could possibly be carried. There was also a large number of passengers and the captain of the boat being mindful of the terms of his license, refused to carry any more. This brought matters to a point where it was recognized that more boats were necessary. For several hours during the day there will be a boat running at the pier every twenty minutes, but the third boat will bring no passengers.

It is said that to run trains every twenty minutes from the pier would involve an outlay of over a hundred thousand dolars for alterations.

OAKLAND NIGHT AT THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The Reliance Club Will Act as the Hosts on That Special Occasion.

The directors of the Mechanics' Fair have decided to set aside the night of September 15th as Oakland's special opportunity to exhibit herself in San Francisco. The Reliance Club of this city has the affair in charge and will be the reception and entertainment committee for the occasion. Last year the special distinction given to Oakland was a marked success, and thousands crossed the bay to attend.

The programme for the evening has not yet been arranged, but there is no doubt it will be as superior to any other as the interests of Oakland are superior to any other represented at the big show.

Ladies' Night.

This evening the Reliance Club will entertain its friends of the fair sex at the club rooms at Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. An excellent programme will be rendered, after which the floor will be cleared for dancing.

The programme as partially arranged is as follows: March, Reliance orchestra; bass solo, Oliver Le Noir; specialties, George Bush, Frank Carty and Alexander Rosher; club swinging, Harry Gilder; farce, Thompson and Murray.

THE MAYOR HAS A VISITOR

A Journalist With a Claim Against the City Seeks Advice.

Says He Was Falsely Imprisoned for Insanity by the Police.

Mayor W. R. Thomas had an eccentric visitor this morning. Mayor Thomas thinks his visitor was a lunatic.

The man explained that his object in calling was to get some redress from the city for being falsely imprisoned a year ago. He was in the Post Office, he said, when he was arrested and incarcerated in the city prison without going to trial.

He said his name was Sanz Paul De Polanger and he filed the following communication with the Mayor:

"A day before the birthday of the immortal United States patriot, Washington, I was arrested by an Oakland police officer, kept a prisoner, charged with insanity in the Oakland City Hall prison. The arrest, imprisonment and insanity charges were without judical cause. I take the liberty to petition $200 for the lesson.

"DE POLANGER.

"Time, ten days."

De Polanger said that, at the time of his arrest, the police said he claimed to be Governor Cleveland and that he frequently wrote letters to George Washington. This, he claimed, was false.

The eccentric individual also left a postal card which was addressed to himself. It read:

"According to a legend the devil is a fallen angel. A human being, who falls morally, falls from angelism into devilism. A human being can also raise morally from devilism to angelism."

De Polanger is a medium sized man, about thirty years of age and was dressed in a rather shabby uniform of the National Guard. His face was a rather strong one and he wore long hair which was done up in cork screw curls.

When asked his business De Polanger answered proudly:

"Im the Oakland correspondent for the 'Call,' 'Chronicle,' and 'Examiner.'"

The man left with the assurance of the Mayor that his case would be attended to.

A PAPER DEVOTED TO BEET CULTURE.

The Progress of a Great Industry Is Clearly Set Forth.

The beet sugar industry of California is growing very rapidly and in order to encourage and foster the trade a very interesting and bright weekly paper has been published. Its name leaves no doubt as to its purpose. It is called "The California Sugar Beet." It deals with the past and present conditions of the industry and is evidently written by people who know whereof they write.

As an example of how it deals with its subject the following article relative to the industry in this vicinity is a good sample:

"In Alameda and Contra Costa counties the manufacture of beet-sugar will be an important industry during the coming year. Two large plants will be put in operation very shortly, one at Crockett and the other at Rodeo. In each case old buildings, constructed originally for other purposes, will be used. The company that will operate these plants was incorporated in San Francisco, under the name of Starr & Co., and has a capitalization of $2,500,000 of which amount $330,000 has been subscribed and used in the purchase of the Crockett and Rodeo properties. The incorporators are A. W. Starr, N. D. Rideout, Alfred Bannister, Justus Greely, and Albert Miller. Senator Perkins is interested in the company. The Rodeo plant of the Union Stock Yards Company was never used for the purpose originally intended. The magnificent equipment has been standing idle for about five years. The buildings are all admirable, and it will not require a great deal of work to put them in shape to turn out sugar in great quantities. The original investment in this plant is said to have been over $1,000,000. The second plant is Starr & Co.'s flouring mill at Crockett. This mill was owned by George W. McNear, and has been operated by him of late. The flour machinery will be taken out and replaced by sugar refining apparatus. The machinery for this mill has already been ordered. The transfer of this property has already been made. Geo. W. McNear deeded it early in August to the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company, and the deed was placed upon record in Martinez. This is only a preliminary deed, for it will afterwards be transferred to the sugar company. The company has already had agents in the field interviewing farmers and ranchers in Alameda, Contra Costa, Solano, Napa and neighboring counties with relation to the raising of sugar-beets. They are offering $5.50 a ton."

The paper is issued by a company consisting of A. C. Mosworth, Geo. F. Weeks and Chas. P. Whiting.

Guarded by Blood Hounds.

S. E. Lund of Fruitvale avenue has been arrested on the complaint of C. E. Culver, who accuses him of keeping a public nuisance in the form of a kennel of man-eating bloodhounds. Lund claims that his house has been twice fired by unknown persons, and that he has received threatening letters. Lund's case came up before Justice Lawrence of East Oakland yesterday afternoon, and owing to the number of witnesses required was postponed for a couple of weeks.

Y. M. C. A. Meetings.

TOO MUCH HOME WORK.

School Children Are Required to Over-Tax Their Strength.

One Case Where a Pupil Was Made to Commit Six Stanzas to Memory.

City Superintendent of Schools McClymonds has received frequent complaints of late in regard to the amount of home work that is required of pupils by the teachers in the various city schools.

It is claimed that the children are required to do much more work at home than they can possibly accomplish and it is said that one teacher who was behind with her class in English, required the pupils to commit to memory six stanzas of poetry in a single evening.

Superintendent McClymonds has sent the following circular on the subject to the various principals:

"Complaint has been made to this office that some of the teachers are requiring too much home work of their pupils.

"Principals will please file information in this office not later than Wednesday, September 8th, on the following:

"The number of subjects in which pupils of the various grades are required to do home work daily.—Give name of subjects.

"The time the average pupil of the grade is expected to devote to home work.

"Whether any of your teachers finding her class behind in any particular subjects, has required of her pupils an unusual amount of home study, in order to bring up the work.

"General information on the matter of home work.

"The amount of time in hours and minutes the pupils of the different classes in your school have for study in the class room."
